Flotilla Leader Added to Navy

OTTAWA (CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy has taken over the destroyer flotilla leader, purchased from the British government early in the year, the Department of National Defence announced today.

The ship has been renamed Assiniboine and will now head Canada's fleet of fighting ships. Before the acquisition of the flotilla leader the Canadian Navy had six destroyers and four mine-sweepers.

The Assiniboine, Canada's largest fighting craft, is being put into commission with Canadian officers and men.

Germans to Attack? Extend Parliament?

PARIS (AP)—French land and air patrols were reported today to have returned from reconnaissance assignments with information indicating the Germans were fully prepared for a big push on the western front.

The French said their scouts told of huge troop concentrations and supply arrangements usually regarded as forerunners of an offensive. They estimated the Germans now have 1,500,000 men on the front and in support areas.

Privateer Mine Trouble Settled

Censor Gets Funny

LONDON (CP-Cable)—There was a raising of eyebrows in newspaper offices today as editors found the staid Ministry of Information had sandwiched between its incredibly long official communications about bill licensing, appointment of poultry advisers and such like, an item denouncing German libel on Chinese in Hongkong.

For the headline on that piece of intelligence was—"Hongkong—all wrong."

Miners Union Fights Pioneer Mine Ousting

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union, local No. 308, sought an injunction in Supreme Court here today restraining Pioneer Gold Mines of British Columbia Ltd. from cutting off heat, light and water to bunk houses, occupied by miners who went on strike October 8.

Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald adjourned the application one week after Wendell B. Farris, K.C., on behalf of the company, submitted an affidavit from Ross Thompson, assistant secretary-treasurer of the company, that the men were only entitled to occupy the bunkhouses while in the company's employ.

Ice Blocks Plane, Starving Baby Dies

EDMONTON (CP)—A heavy, early-winter flow of ice in the Dease River in northern British Columbia prevented pilot Jack Moar of Yukon Southern Air Service from rescuing a sick Indian child at McDame's Creek and the child died from malnutrition, according to word received here today.

Although a landing was made at Dease Lake, 30 miles south of McDame's Creek, no overland rescue was possible because of the ice flow and the rough state of the country.

(The Goodwin Sands, dangerous shoals in the Strait of Dover, flank the southern approach to the Thames River.)

Extend Parliament?

OTTAWA (CP)—The overwhelming victory of the Liberals in yesterday's Quebec election is accepted here as wiping out possibility of a federal general election at least before the conclusion of the January session of Parliament.

Mr. King, it is said, may take yesterday's Liberal victory as a vote of confidence in his government sufficiently convincing to warrant asking Parliament to extend its life beyond the five years, as Parliament did after the first Great War broke out.

Ss. Flint Released

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Russian radio announced late tonight the United States freighter City of Flint had been released.

The brief broadcast said the cargo had been inspected by Soviet authorities at Murmansk, then freed. The ship was ordered to leave port immediately.

(The Danish radio also announced the release, and said the cargo first had been taken off.)

The U.S. had demanded the ship be given back to the crew. See Page 2.

MURDER CHARGED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Andrew Pederson, 39-year-old fisherman charged with the stabbing murder of his landlady, Mrs. Catherine Reid, here Tuesday, was remanded until next week when he appeared in police court today.

Rescued Crew Lands

GIBRALTAR (AP)—The United States freighter Crown City today arrived here with 31 crewmen of the British vessel Ledbury, which was torpedoed 80 miles off Gibraltar Tuesday. The rescued British seamen said a German submarine sank their ship.

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A German pursuit plane, returning to its home base with a squadron, lost its bearings in a fog today and landed undamaged on Danish soil. The plane was confiscated and its crew interned.

The confiscated plane belonged to the Red Devils, Field Marshal Herman Goering's personal squadron and a continuation of the Von Richthofen unit of the first Great War.

ALSACE LEADER SPY!

NANCY, France (AP)—Dr. Karl Roos, 60-year-old Alsatian autonomist leader, was condemned to death by the military court today on charges of having turned over French military secrets to German spies.

Liberal Sweep In Quebec Unites Canadian Effort

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal Liberals and Conservatives alike today viewed the Liberal landslide in the Quebec election as an emphatic vindication of Parliament's decision that Canada should participate in the war against Nazi Germany. In the new Legislative Assembly of 86 members the Liberals have 67 seats, Premier Maurice Duplessis' Union Nationale Party 16 seats, National Party one seat and Independents one seat. Voting in the remaining riding—Charlevoix-Saguenay will take place November 16.

Government supporters acclaimed the defeat of Premier Duplessis' government as a victory for Canadian unity and showered congratulations on their political doyen of French-Canada—Justice Minister Lapointe, who led the federal Liberal attack in Quebec.

Political opinion on Parliament Hill generally interpreted the Liberal win as a personal triumph for Mr. Lapointe and probably his greatest achievement in 35 years of public life.

A tense capital received the election results last night and both Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative Leader R. J. Manion issued statements regarding the vote.

The Prime Minister said "the results at the polls have shown above all else that the people of Quebec are as one with their fellow Canadians of the other provinces in their determination that a united Canada shall co-operate at the side of Britain and France in the war to defend freedom and resist aggression."

Six weeks of uncertainty in government circles in Ottawa were brought to an end by the victory and the administration here will now be able to devote its entire energy to the war effort, many political observers believe.

Prime Minister King thanked the three federal Liberal cabinet ministers who took part in the Quebec campaign—Messrs. Lapointe, Cardin and Power—saying:

"No greater service has been rendered Canada since Confederation. They have earned and will be gladly accepted the gratitude of all true Canadians."

(See Page 3 for full Quebec election results.)

'Triumph for Allies'

LONDON (CP)—London evening newspapers today displayed prominently reports of the Liberal election victory in Quebec beside pictures of Prime Minister Mackenzie King smiling.

The Evening News' headline called the defeat of Premier Duplessis, Union Nationale government a "triumph for the Allies" and the Evening Standard's headline said "Canada is now united for war."

The star called the result "a confidence vote for Canada's war policy."

Vin Rouge for Troops—Half Billions Gallons

By MANUEL CHAVES NOGALES

PARIS (Havas)—A visit to the front has convinced this correspondent the French government believes the old adage about an army marching on its stomach.

There is for instance, the little matter of red wine—500,000,000 gallons of it—in reserve for the poilus. The soldiers are not going to be thirsty during this war.

Two hot meat dishes daily, with potatoes and fresh vegetables and plenty of coffee, topped off with a variety of fruits, round out the average diet of the poilu. And it's washed down with a plentiful ration of vin rouge.

Edmonton, B-r-r-r!

EDMONTON (CP)—Temperatures in Edmonton sank swiftly to 13 below zero overnight to record the first sub-zero weather of the winter and the lowest reading for any October 25 since 1919, when 15 below was recorded.

GREAT BRITAIN GETS THESE IF CONGRESS LIFTS EMBARGO—In the hangar and foreground here at Floyd Bennett Field, N.Y., are seen two of 30 Lockheed bombers consigned to the British government and flown from the Lockheed plant at Burbank, Cal. The remainder are expected there later. They will be dismantled ready for shipment in case Congress lifts the embargo now prohibiting the shipment of arms, munitions and implements of war to belligerents.

FIGHTING MACKENZIES CARRY ON FAMILY TRADITION—Halifax, steeped in tradition as a naval and military city, has seen 36 members of active service forces training there come from seven Nova Scotia fighting families. One of the "Brother acts" comes from Bridgewater, N.S., in the persons of Harold, Douglas and Earle MacKenzie, now recruits in the R.C.A.F. Their three elder brothers served in the Canadian infantry in the last war and the present recruits are carrying on the family tradition. "We all signed up as soon as war broke out and we're going to see who gets ahead the fastest," says Howard, eldest of the three aspirant fliers.

Cranbrook Votes In Cool Weather

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP)—Voting to fill Cranbrook's vacant seat in the British Columbia Legislature took place in winter-like weather today, with several inches of snow on the ground and the temperature well below freezing. Traffic was slowed up in rural areas.

Some 5,000 voters are qualified to choose among the three candidates, Arnold McGrath, Liberal, Thomas O'Connor, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and A. B. Smith, nominated as an Independent Liberal.

About one-third of the riding's voters were listed to cast their ballots in Cranbrook city and almost the same number at Kimberley, the remainder being divided among 14 other polls.

Harold Winch, C.C.F. House leader, is staying in Cranbrook to hear the results of the election. Success for his party's candidate would give the C.C.F. a House membership of nine, one more than the present Conservative official opposition.

Liberal Government forces hold 30 seats without Cranbrook. There is one Labor member, Tom Uphill of Fernie.

Premier Pattullo, who took part in the campaign on behalf of Mr. McGrath, returned to the coast yesterday.

Ex-Kaiser's Guard Dead

UNIONTOWN, Wn. (A.P.)—Adolf Sweitzer, 51, the booted blacksmith of Uniontown, reportedly a member of the bodyguard of Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm during the World War, is dead of heart attack at Colfax, Wn., where he came 10 years ago to open his shop.

The smith disdained the grimy overalls of his craft and was attired always in military boots and breeches.

VOLUNTEER CALL MADE BY BRITAIN

LONDON (CP)—Britain issued tonight the first general call for volunteers since the war began. A war office announcement said voluntary enlistment was being opened for cavalry, infantry, artillery and engineers.

Previously, enlistment of only specialized classes had been asked. Age limits for volunteers were set at 22 to 35 years in Great Britain and 20 to 35 years in northern Ireland. After acceptance on the first call those enlisted will be sent home with orders to report on November 15.

Says Ribbentrop's Efforts Grotesque

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the House of Lords today Soviet Russia occupied eastern Poland only after Germany had "started it and set the example."

Lord Halifax said Britain's pledge to Poland had been only "to provide against the case of aggression by Germany" though he admitted "it is quite true that it makes no difference to the Poles whether they are invaded from the east or west."

Viscount Halifax spoke of Von Ribbentrop's speech at Danzig as a "clumsy attempt" to divide Britain and France.

"The spectacle of Germany frightened with a dangerous attack by Poland and only a short time ago by Czechoslovakia and the victim of sinister plotting by this country would, if the whole matter was not so serious, bring smiles to the lips of gods and men," Lord Halifax declared.

Lord Halifax assured Lord Listowel Britain was "now examining" the possibility of further trade negotiations with Russia.

Canada's Visible Wheat Sets Record

OTTAWA (CP)—For the past four weeks the visible supply of Canadian wheat has been greater than at any time in history, totaling, 336,565,884 bushels at October 20, according to the monthly review by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued today.

It is expected the figure will continue to grow during the next few weeks, until disposal in the domestic or export markets overtakes the rate of new marketings by growers, now declining.

Rail shipments to the lakehead have been suspended until the congestion there is partly relieved.

On the other hand, wheat in transit on the Great Lakes was much less than this time last year, the comparative figures being 3,638,358 and 8,499,411.

This reflects the cessation of British buying of Canadian wheat for the first six weeks of the war, one of the major factors in the record accumulation in the country's elevators. Moderate British buying is now reported resumed. The previous record visible supply was 270,700,000 bushels, in store November 1, 1935.

This year's 449,000,000-bushel crop was well above normal. It came on top of a near-record carryover from last year of about 100,000,000 bushels.

Winter Sweeps Front

PARIS (AP)—For the first time since the start of the war, snow fell in the Vosges mountains as rain and cold swept the entire front, hindering infantry operations and grounding air forces.

Today's French communiqué said the night was "quiet as a whole" and noted "bad weather."

Von Ribbentrop Gets Firm Reply From Chamberlain

By J. F. SANDERSON
LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today dismissed Joachim von Ribbentrop's effort to pin blame for the war on Great Britain as unworthy of comment and filled with distortions of the truth.

The whole world knew the Nazi Foreign Minister was wrong when he argued in his Danzig speech last Tuesday that it was Britain and not Germany which desired and plotted war, the Prime Minister told the House of Commons in his weekly "war report."

"The whole world knows that no government ever sought more ardently to avoid war or took greater risks to preserve peace than the government of this country," Mr. Chamberlain said.

"We have already published with complete frankness all essential documents relating to the cause of the war. We are content to be judged by facts and to know that the verdict of the great majority of neutral observers is in our favor."

The Prime Minister asserted Great Britain was ready to meet the challenge made by Von Ribbentrop in his Danzig address.

Herr von Ribbentrop has announced an intention of seeing the struggle through with all their (Germany's) energy and strength. If that is indeed their decision there can be but one reply, and we are prepared to give it.

NEUTRALS NOT MISLED

As to other parts of Von Ribbentrop's Danzig speech, Mr. Chamberlain said he did not intend to waste time by "commenting on the many details of this performance," and added:

"No one in this country will be deceived by its distortions of the truth, and there is already abundant evidence that Herr von Ribbentrop has been no more successful in his attempt to mislead impartial observers—in other parts of the world."

"Indeed I even cherish the hope that despite all suppressions and falsifications there are still some in Germany itself who see where the real truth lies."

"One of the questions which the historians of the future will have to consider is how far the great tragedy of our times was due to the failure of Herr von Ribbentrop to comprehend either the policy or the character of the British people."

"It is not England that has challenged Germany. It is the German government who, by their persistent acts of aggression pursued in the face of our repeated warnings, have forced us at last reluctantly to take up arms."

"It is the German government who, by their reckless disregard of their pledged word and of the rights and liberties of other peoples, must bear the responsibility for this war and for all its consequences."

"In his final report on his mission to Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson (British ambassador) referred to the encouragement given to Herr Hitler in his designs on Poland by Herr von Ribbentrop, who apparently advised him up to the last moment that Britain would not fight."

"Yet this is the man who now asserts that the whole object of British policy since 1933 has been to concert war against Germany."

MAISKY LAUGHS

"I will make one other comment on the German foreign minister's speech. He desires, it seems, to invite the Soviet Union to join in a crusade against the British Empire."

Soviet ambassador Ivan Maisky laughed at this remark by the Prime Minister. He was in the diplomatic gallery, as was Giuseppe Bastianini, the new Italian ambassador.

"Why," Mr. Chamberlain exclaimed, "what a change is here! Let me read two sentences from Herr von Ribbentrop's address to the press when he first came to England in 1936."

"Germany wants to be friends with Great Britain and I think the British people also wish for German friendship. The Fuehrer is convinced that there is only one real danger to Europe and to the British Empire as well—that is the spreading further of Com-

New Brunswick Election Called For Nov. 20

FREDERICTON (CP)—Premier A. A. Dymally announced today a provincial general election will be held in New Brunswick November 20. The province's last election was held in June, 1935. In the present Legislature Liberals hold 39 seats and Conservatives 5. There are four vacancies.

The Premier pointed out the mandate of the Liberal government was due to expire in a "few months."

An election campaign "would be most inopportune in the spring or early summer of next year when our every effort should be directed to other matters," he said. "In consequence, the government has decided to seek at once a renewed mandate."

Outbreak of the war had halted earlier preparations for an election, the Premier added.

Britain now was preparing for a war of at least three years' duration, he said.

"The direction of our war effort is primarily the responsibility of the Dominion Government," he stated. "We, in this province, however, can in many ways lend assistance. For weeks past, in collaboration with the federal authorities, the members of this government have been occupied with the formulation of plans which will ensure that the resources of our province will be utilized to the fullest extent in the grave business on which we are embarked."

"Unified and continuous effort will be essential to the successful carrying out of our plans. We must take steps to ensure that the work will go on without break or interruption."

Bans Cargo News

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle Merchants' Exchange today announced that, in compliance with regulations more stringent than was imposed by the government in the World War, it had ceased compiling statistical reports on cargoes.

The new rules prohibit perusal of customs service reports on cargoes moving into and out of United States ports. World War regulations prohibited their publication only.

Radio Man Escapes

BERGEN, Norway (AP)—Reports today indicated the American radio operator of the City of Flint, United States ship captured by the Germans, escaped the craft at Tromsø, where survivors of the sinking of the British steamer Stonegate were put ashore.

The report said he mixed with members of the British crew and wandered off the City of Flint unnoticed by the German prize crew as the Britons were sent ashore.

munism, this most terrible of all diseases—terrible because people generally seem to realize its danger only when it is too late."

At this there was loud laughter in the House. The positive conclusion which we are apparently asked to draw from the German foreign minister's speech," Mr. Chamberlain said, "is that the German government have made the choice which as I stated on October 12 lay before them."

The Prime Minister described as an "outstanding event in foreign affairs" the conclusion of the Anglo-Franco-Turkish mutual aid agreement. It had been received with profound satisfaction, "doubtless because the world sees in it a guarantee for the maintenance of peace in at least one region of the world."

"It is a purely defensive instrument threatening no one, and designed only to oppose aggression," he said of the pact.

LINKS WITH RUSSIA

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, urged a new attempt for political understanding with Russia.

Major Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, expressed satisfaction with the Prime Minister's statement. "It would be a mistake to crow too soon, but we are, I think, at the present stage entitled to say that we are holding the (submarine) menace in check," he said.

Canada Air Chief Won Successes In Solo Flights

OTTAWA (CP)—William Avery Bishop, Canada's air marshal and head of her military aviation, left Royal Military College when 20 years old to go overseas in 1914 as a lieutenant in the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Four years later when the first Great War ended, Bishop had these achievements to his credit: He had brought down 72 German airplanes on the western front and was tops among the Allied airmen. He had risen to the rank of lieutenant-colonel, and won the Victoria Cross. He was officially credited with more than 170 air battles.

Lt.-Col. Bishop was the first man to receive the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross, all in a single investiture by the King. He is also Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor, holds the Croix de Guerre with two palms, the special medal of the British Air Fleet Committee, gold medal of the Aero Club of France and the special war medal of the Aero Club of America.

Air Marshal Bishop is a firm believer in the potency of aerial warfare and is on record with this statement in a public address before the present war:

"I believe that in the event of European trouble our most valuable form of co-operation (with Great Britain) would be highly-trained air personnel."

Today Bishop is busily engaged in the organization and training of that personnel and will play a large part in the establishment in Canada of training areas for airmen from other parts of the Empire.

Bishop was born in Owen Sound, Ont., February 4, 1894. At college when war broke out, he lost no time in getting into the Canadian Expeditionary Force. In August, 1915, in France, he transferred on his own request to the Royal Flying Corps.

On the western front he piled up a record unmatched by any flier of the allied forces and exceeded only by Germany's Richthofen, but war writers agree that Bishop's achievement was possibly the greater. He engaged in more combats single-handed and brought down more enemy planes behind their own lines.

In one day Bishop brought down five German planes. In another he went up nine times after enemy planes and nine times engaged them. His greatest successes were in solitary flights where, as one writer says, "he took fearful chances."

Narrow escape Bishop had was in one of his early flights. On March 25, 1917, when the Germans were in a strategic retreat to the Hindenburg Line, he glided back over the allied lines with a dead engine. Above him were two German planes, but he landed safely.

Bishop's winning the Victoria Cross was an exploit of June 2, 1917. Before sunrise, Bishop, flying alone, went over the German lines to raid an airdrome. There was no sign of life around that airdrome so he continued on his way till he found one. At the second, seven planes were being readied for the air.

Bishop swooped down, destroyed two of their planes. Two others took after him. One of these he destroyed and damaged the other, before returning to the allied lines.

In June, 1918, he was detached for service on the British air ministry staff. In August he returned to the Canadian headquarters staff to organize an air branch an was engaged on this when the war ended.

Commercial air ventures in which he engaged in Canada after the war were disappointing. Bishop returned to England but later came back to Canada and on the outbreak of the present war, was vice-president of a large oil company.

The Canadian government made him air vice-marshal in 1936. In August last he received the rank of marshal.

The air marshal's publications include "Winged Warfare," "Hunting the Huns in the Air" and "The Flying Squad."

He married in 1917 Margaret Eaton Burden, daughter of C. E. Burden and niece of the late Sir John Eaton of Toronto. There is one son and one daughter.

5 German Merchant Ships Captured By British

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain, speaking of the German war against shipping, today told the House of Commons that "it seems now to have become the rule for merchant ships to be sunk without warning."

"No words are strong enough to express our detestation of this form of warfare," the Prime Minister said of German submarine attacks in his weekly war report.

In the growing lawlessness passengers and crew were being turned adrift in open boats many miles from land, he said.

The British navy during the past few days had captured five German merchant ships totalling 28,367 tons, he said. In addition, one ship had scuttled herself, so Germany had lost 33,000 tons. During the same period five British ships totalling 22,715 tons were lost. Thus British losses amounted to less than the tonnage of German ships captured.

RUBY KEELER TO DIVORCE JOLSON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Al Jolson, noted "mammy" singer of screen and stage, and Ruby Keeler have separated and she has consulted lawyers with divorce in view.

Jolson appeared broken-hearted as he told of their separation.

"I hope everything will work out all right," he said to her as he left her at the home of her parents. "I hope you'll come back right away."

"Maybe," she replied, but when he talked with her again yesterday he learned she already had conferred with lawyers.

Jolson said that since the separation he had offered her $400 a week for life, with lump-sum payment of $50,000 if she married again, and a $100,000 trust fund for their adopted child. She rejected this as insufficient, he said, on advice of lawyers.

He described their differences as "family troubles, not important enough, in my opinion, to bring a divorce."

He said that until Miss Keeler had fully made up her mind he would continue to occupy their Encino home, near Hollywood, while she would live with her parents.

Miss Keeler, a native of Halifax, N.S., and Jolson were introduced by Texas Guinan, the late night club hostess, and married a year later, September 21, 1928. The singer honeymooned in Europe with his 19-year-old bride.

Jolson, who was the star of one of the first talking pictures, has continued in demand for radio programs and film work. Miss Keeler, one of top rank screen actresses, has not appeared lately in pictures.

King Sees Workers Cast Big Guns

LONDON (CP)—The King journeyed overnight to a point "somewhere in England" to inspect a gun factory and, incidentally, get a glimpse of maritime humor.

He smiled when he saw chalked on a piece of heavy machinery the words: "Hitler wanted under the 1,000-ton press."

The factory is one of the government's newest and most up-to-date ordnance works. With Engineer Vice-Admiral Sir Harold Brown, director-general of munitions production at the Ministry of Supply, in attendance, the King spent more than two hours in building, seeing giant presses handling 19-ton steel billets from which gun barrels and breech rings are forged.

At one point the King and his party stood for several minutes watching molten bronze cast for gun mountings.

After the wedding and reception they will spend a short honeymoon in Banff, and reside in Calgary.

U.S. Insists Russia Return Ss. Flint to Crew

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced today the United States government had demanded of Soviet Russia the return of the steamship City of Flint and her cargo to her American crew. The demand, he said, was presented by Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt, and no reply had yet been received.

The American demand, he said, was based on the United States conception of international law on the subject.

(In Berlin authoritative persons declared Soviet Russia had agreed to permit the vessel to leave the Russian port of Murmansk in charge of her German prize crew as soon as they considered the vessel seaworthy.)

Mr. Hull said the United States views of the international law on the matter embraced a United States Supreme Court decision in the case of the British steamship Appam, which was sent by the German raider Mowee in 1916 into Hampton Roads, Virginia, with a prize crew aboard.

The Supreme Court's decision called for the release of the vessel on the grounds that Germany had no right to send a prize ship into an American port.

Mr. Hull said the American position also embraced Article 21 of the Hague Convention of 1907, which said that a prize ship could not be sent into a neutral harbor only in case of exceptional circumstances such as stress of weather, breakdown of machinery or lack of provisions.

In such case, Mr. Hull said, the ship must be released and depart after the exceptional circumstances had been overcome.

The Secretary said the American legal position in the case of the City of Flint had been set forth in several long telegrams to Ambassador Steinhardt in Moscow.

MESSAGE TO BERLIN

A State Department official said the same legal argument had also been cabled to the American charge d'affaires in Berlin for presentation to the German government.

No instructions with regard to specific demands on the German government had been sent, however. The Berlin embassy was simply asked to tell the German government, as the embassy in Moscow told the Soviet government, that the United States did not admit the right of a belligerent to take an American prize ship into a neutral port except under certain exceptional circumstances.

Mr. Hull revealed that the State Department is still very much in the dark as to the status of the City of Flint at Murmansk. He did not have authentic information he said, on a report from Berlin that the City of Flint had put in to the Russian Arctic port for repairs. He said he did not know whether Russia had interned the ship or not, and he had no information Germany and Russia had agreed the ship was to be turned over to the former.

He had likewise no information from the German government, he said as to whether it was instituting prize court proceedings.

NAZI PROPOSAL

BERLIN (AP)—Authoritative Germans declared today Soviet Russia had agreed to allow the United States steamship City of Flint to leave the port of Murmansk in charge of her German prize crew as soon as they considered the vessel seaworthy.

A spokesman indicated the vessel would be brought to Germany as a prize.

"The German prize crew will get aboard again," he said, "and you may rest assured the ship will not be headed for the United States."

The United States embassy said the German Foreign Office at noon (6 a.m., E.S.T.) had "informally communicated" to the embassy that the City of Flint entered Murmansk because she suffered "mavarie" (sea damage) and that her American crew was safe and unhurt.

Sources close to the Foreign Office indicated that the communication was oral.

(In Moscow, United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt said he had been assured the City of Flint's crew of 42 was safe aboard. Tass (Soviet news agency) said the vessel was taken to Murmansk after a brief halt at Tromsø, Norway, because her machinery had been damaged.)

Authorized German sources said the case of the American ship had been clarified between Germany and Soviet Russia.

Russian officials were said to have recognized that the City of Flint sought refuge in Murmansk because she was unseaworthy and, therefore, would be per-

Papless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dizzy, tired and peevish.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

mitted to leave again when she had been put in condition.

CONTRABAND CLAIM

An official German statement today said the City of Flint "was without any doubt legally captured because it had contraband aboard."

"The City of Flint, enroute to Glasgow, was searched on the Atlantic by a German warship a few days ago and captured because contraband was established," the statement said.

Defending the action of the Nazi prize crew in carrying the ship to the Russian Arctic port of Murmansk, the statement said:

"Because of damage by the sea, the ship had to enter the harbor at Murmansk under direction of the German prize command."

NONE INJURED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States government was officially advised by the German Foreign Office today no member of the crew of the American freighter City of Flint had suffered injury when the vessel was captured by a German warship.

The first official communication received at the State Department was transmitted here by the United States charge d'affaires at Berlin, Alexander C. Kirk.

In a memorandum to Kirk the foreign office advised that the ship had been taken to the Russian harbor of Murmansk because of "sea damage."

Manville's New Love's Labor Lost

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)—The romantic notion which prompted Tommy Manville to spend $3,000 to bring Elinor Troy from Hollywood to New York in a chartered plane loaded with orchids and champagne today became love's labor lost.

The asbestos heir said after a five-day tour of night clubs with the eye-flicking show girl that they had parted company.

"We came up here to the country last night, and she found 28 rooms too small for her," Tommy moaned. "Besides that she didn't like the presence of Yvonne Arden (young radio singer)."

"She told me 'you're too blamed busy with your business to get married,' so I called a cab for her."

Duplessis Turned Out By Landslide

QUEBEC (CP)—Liberals under Hon. Adelard Godbout made ready today to take over the administration of Quebec's affairs and to co-operate with the federal government in which four of the province's native sons hold ministries.

The will of the province's voters to go along with Godbout in his promised "safe and sane administration" and to back the stand on war participation of its federal ministers was expressed yesterday in an avalanche of votes that sent 67 Liberals to the Legislative Assembly in this ancient capital.

Premier Maurice Duplessis found his Union Nationale representation—71 when he called a general election a month ago—reduced to 16. One independent and one National candidate made up the total of 85 who were counted in after the polls closed.

One constituency—Charlevoix-Saguenay, will vote November 16. Seven cabinet ministers were among government party casualties as Liberals reversed the vote which put them out of power in 1936. The new premier will be Mr. Godbout, who held that position for two months in 1936 after a period as Minister of Agriculture. He is a scientific farmer in Temiscouata County on the St. Lawrence's south shore, a former professor of agriculture, a family man with five children. He is 47 years old.

FEDERAL IMPLICATION

Throughout the campaign the premier-elect talked provincial affairs, urged a broad agricultural program, improvement of rural life and collective labor contracts. Much of the Liberal reply to the Duplessis charge that Quebec's autonomy was threatened by federal acts—notably the War Measures Act—fell to three federal cabinet ministers—Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, Postmaster-General C. G. Power and Works Minister P. J. A. Carlin. They had staked their cabinet posts on defeat of the Union Nationale government.

At Ottawa Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared "it was impossible to exaggerate the significance of the Liberal victory in the Province of Quebec. No more significant political battle has been fought in Canada's history. The results at the polls have shown above all else that the people of Quebec are as one with their fellow-Canadians of the other provinces in their determination that a united Canada shall co-operate at the side of Britain and France in the war to defend freedom and to resist aggression. . . . No greater service has been rendered Canada since confederation" than the campaign work of the three federal ministers.

Conservative leader R. J. Manion said: "Participation is no longer an issue. Now let us get on with the war."
Mr. Lapointe declared "I will remain at my post" and Mr. Carlin said the result disclosed a firm determination on Quebec's part to co-operate with the rest of Canada.

Premier Duplessis made no formal statement, but appeared before his Three Rivers home in response to a demonstration by a sympathetic group of youths. He was heard to say: "Long live youth! Down with conscription." Mr. Godbout said the election was "a vote of confidence in the provincial Liberal Party and an appreciation of the stand taken by the Liberal leaders in the federal field."

"We did not save the country because the country did not want us to do so," said Paul Gouin, leader of the Action Libérale Nationale Party which ran 56 candidates and failed to elect a member.

"Conscription" was the word that ran through almost every campaign speech, yet actually there was no expressed difference in the attitude of any of the three parties on compulsory military service. All opposed it. Prime Minister King had announced publicly that his government would never impose it; the Quebec federal ministers had said they would never remain in a government which attempted to enforce it.

CONSCRIPTION ISSUE

Premier Duplessis however declared that a vote for the Liberals would be a vote for conscription, and held that the federal ministers had changed their stand in extraterritorial war participation, and that they might change their stand again.

Mr. Gouin pledged that an A.L.N. government would take Quebec out of Confederation in the event of compulsory service. He opposed "unlimited participation" in the war. The Union Nationale recognized that Canada was at war and in this connection declared through Premier Duplessis that "there are laws and Quebec will obey them," but held that authority was centralized through war measures and expenditures on a participation were unduly jeopardizing Quebec's position.

Only four of 10 cabinet ministers, apart from the Premier, were able to hold their seats. These were Hon. Onesime Gagnon, Minister of Mines at Matane; Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Public Works, in Sherbrooke, where he had a close call to win over Maurice Giguere; Hon. J. H. A. Paquette, Minister of Health and Provincial Secretary, who won in Labelle, and Hon. Antonio Elie, minister without portfolio, victor in Yamaska. Both Mr. Bourque and Mr. Paquette are veterans of the first Great War.

Mr. Godbout, winning L'Islet seat he lost in 1936, defeated Hon. Joseph Bilodeau, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

T. D. Bouchard, Liberal House Leader during the three years since the party's 1936 defeat, was returned in St. Hyacinthe. Other prominent members of the party from which Mr. Godbout will pick his cabinet are L. Athanase David, a former provincial secretary; Oscar Drouin, who was a minister in the Duplessis cabinet but broke away and ran in this election as a Liberal, and F. J. Leduc, also a former Duplessis minister.

The two Duplessis supporters who left the party over the premier's war stand failed of election when running on other tickets. W. R. Bullock, who represented Westmount as Union Nationale member, was defeated as a Conservative in the new constituency of Notre Dame de Grace, and Gilbert Layton, as an Independent, in the merged riding of Westmount-St. George.

HOUSE ELECTED
Mayor Camille Houde of Montreal, storm-centre of many a political squabble and once provincial Conservative leader, got back into the provincial picture as an Independent. He was successful in his old riding of Montreal-St. Mary and was one of two "other group" candidates to win out. The other was Rene Chalout, who left the Union Nationale ranks in 1937 and termed himself a Nationalist. He won Lotbiniere from Maurice Pelletier, Union Nationale member of the recently dissolved House.

Another colorful figure failed to make the grade. R. L. Calder, K.C., noted criminal lawyer, ran in Montreal-Verdun as the only Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate in the election. He finished second in a field of four to J. J. Comcau, Liberal.

The Communist Party polled 146 votes, all for Evariste Dube in Montreal-St. James, won by J. H. Toupin, Liberal.

Gladys George's Father Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sir Arthur Evans Clare, 74, one-time author and father of Gladys George of stage and screen, died at a hospital yesterday after a long illness.

Sir Arthur, knighted by King Edward VII for service with the British Army in India, was a native of London, but came to the United States at the close of his army career. He retired as an actor in 1933.

The widow, Lady Alice, and Miss George survive him.

Godbout Sees New Quebec Unity

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec province's citizens had before them today an appeal from Premier-elect Adelard Godbout to "work together to bring back progress and prosperity to old Quebec and, at the same time, to our beloved country, Canada."

The Liberal leader, speaking from his home here over a provincial network of the Canadian broadcasting Corporation, said administration of Quebec "will require much work and I am fully aware of the responsibility which has fallen upon me."

"Particularly in the financial field much work has to be done to place this province in good standing," he said.

Mr. Godbout's address followed a triumphal automobile procession from the ferry wharf in downtown Quebec, where hundreds gathered to greet him on his return from L'Islet County, where he won a personal victory at the polls yesterday.

Ex-Premier L. A. Taschereau, in whose cabinet Mr. Godbout once served as agriculture minister, was among the greeters and the two chatted for many minutes in the crowded parlor of the Premier-elect's home.

Outcome of yesterday's general election, Mr. Godbout said in his address, "compensates us well for the trials which our party underwent in 1936," when 38 years of Liberal rule ended with rise to power of Maurice Duplessis' Union Nationale Party.

"We knew the provincial Liberal Party had good and loyal friends in the federal domain, but in spite of their sympathy in our behalf, they would not have had to participate in this political campaign if it had been conducted only on a provincial basis," he said.

"In effect, the election has a double significance. It shows first that in the provincial domain the electorate wishes to confer the administration of this province on the Liberal Party and to see again order and good sense reign in the Quebec Legislature."

"It is also in my opinion a proof that Quebec electors, be they French-Canadian or English-Canadian, understand the necessity of maintaining unity of thought and action, so indispensable in the difficult times which we are undergoing."

Honorary Degree For Governor

VANCOUVER (CP)—Honorary doctor of laws degrees were conferred on Hon. Eric W. Hamber, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and Professor Paul A. Boving yesterday at the annual fall congregation of the University of British Columbia.

Professor Boving, who joined the U.B.C. staff in 1915, was appointed professor emeritus after his retirement last year.

Chancellor R. E. McKechnie officiated at yesterday's ceremonies and more than 100 students were granted degrees and diplomas.

Chancellor McKechnie paid tribute to the Lieutenant-Governor and said as he presented the degree:

"His Honor is no stranger to this University, for the counsels of its governors have profited much from his enlightened interest and wide experience; and these same benefits have been bestowed, with equally gracious generosity, on all worthy phases of our community life."

"It was the first time the Lieutenant-Governor had been so honored. He is a holder of a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Manitoba."

In his address to the congregation, the Lieutenant-Governor said:

"I am filled to the utmost with deep appreciation of the honor you have conferred upon me, not only in receiving this degree from the hands of our beloved chancellor, but also from a university of which we are so justly proud."

He stressed the need for national scholarships and said there were "highly technical opportunities for expansion of effort industrially, chemically, agriculturally and in other spheres which could well utilize the energies of young men who at present were denied the opportunity of developing their gifts."

Duplessis Swamped

ALTHOUGH WE DO NOT KNOW WHAT the more optimistic prognosticators on the spot expected would happen to the administration of Premier Maurice Duplessis in a test at the polls, it would be safe to hazard the guess that few wagers were laid in anticipation of such an overwhelming victory as that which Liberal leader Adélard Godbout registered yesterday. Nor is there much the head of the Union Nationale government may say in mitigation of the rout his party has sustained. He chose the issue on which the election was fought. He sought to strengthen its appeal by the introduction of extraneous matters which he knew were not in question. The verdict is best illustrated by the fact that in the next Parliament of 86 members the 76 he could count as his followers in the last will have been reduced to 16, with Mr. Godbout dominating the House with 67.

Nobody questioned the privilege of Premier Duplessis to defend and champion the rights of his province. But ever since he took office three years ago he has maintained a hostile attitude toward federal authority. He has not been on speaking terms with the spirit of co-operation; he chose totalitarian methods in the hope that they would eventually succeed where others had failed. It was this outlook which led him to the decision of calling an election two years before the expiry of the constitutional term of the current Parliament. This, of course, was his business. No legal barrier stood in his way.

As a political strategist, however, Mr. Duplessis has been clearly revealed as a miserable failure. The people saw through his opportunistic manoeuvre. They obviously resented the implication that they could be used as a tool to hinder Canada's effort in an emergency. They believed Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe and his two colleagues in the cabinet of Mr. Mackenzie King when these ministers said they would not only resign from the government were its chief to introduce conscription as a national policy but also would surrender their federal portfolios if the ballot went against Mr. Godbout yesterday. Mr. Duplessis should have known that Mr. Lapointe was not the man to enter a political fight of this kind unless he meant everything he said. The Minister of Justice does not mix opportunism with issues by which the unity of the nation is converted into a political football.

Canada at war, the bogey of conscription tied to the old problem of provincial autonomy, however, was the political lure to which Premier Duplessis succumbed. It dimmed his partisan and parochial eyes to the much more vital questions involved. He was unable to visualize a Quebec electorate ready and willing to postpone consideration of the less pressing problems until a later day; he was unable to conceive a Quebec electorate relying on a Dominion Government's plain promise of refusal to institute compulsory military service. He preferred to gamble with his political future. Few will shed tears over the result.

As they count their victory today the people of the ancient province will congratulate themselves on their determination to safeguard and promote the type of Canadian unity under which it should be possible, when the outer enemy has been subdued, to deal amicably and satisfactorily with matters that have been permitted to intrude on the national scene for a week or so. Mr. Godbout now asks his compatriots to "work together to bring back progress and prosperity to old Quebec and, at the same time, to our beloved country, Canada."

This simple exhortation, added to the result of the poll, obviates the need for any dissertation on what might have been if the Duplessis government had been returned—or even if a stalemate condition had been produced—for the Canadian people now know beyond peradventure where Quebec stands on the one question which dwarfs all else for the time being. The people of the ancient province have proved by their ballots that they, representing one-third of the population, are four-square for Canadian unity and all the term implies. Hitler and Company, too, may note this if they are interested.

Excellent Publicity Missed

ONE OF THE MOST NOTICED AND regrettable omissions from the advertising display—known in billboard parlance as transparencies—from the British Columbia exhibit at the International Exposition at San Francisco was that depicting the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart.

If there is one attraction of the North American continent which has become famous the world over—through the fine public spiritedness of the owners which prompts them to open their domain to all and sundry for 365 days of the year—it is that inspiring example of man's collaboration with Nature at Brentwood.

Fortunately, however, the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has never failed to realize the invaluable asset which "Brentwood" has proved to British Columbia. Thus, its inexcusable omission from a place of honor at San Francisco may not have created so much disappointment as might appear at first consideration. It is nevertheless a criticism which merits the attention of the provincial government's department of tourist travel.

All For the Cause

THE COLORFUL RICE BOWL FESTIVAL, to be opened tonight by Mayor McGavin, and which will continue until the end of the week, is a contribution our Chinese residents are making toward war charities.

For more than two years the anxieties of war have been theirs. During these two years they have carried on a noble and highly successful work, raising money and gathering supplies to relieve suffering wrought by an invader on the land from which they or their families came. Now that war has come to the rest of us, they have lined up their efficiently-functioning Medical Aid for China and the Chinese Relief alongside the Canadian Red Cross. This is wise, as the objectives are the same. For the Chinese, as well as we, are combatting ruthless aggression.

A remarkable measure of success attended the recent Rice Bowl Festival in Vancouver. All its features are being duplicated in Victoria and there is no doubt the event here will prove equally successful. Distinguished outsiders such as Pearl Buck and Nora Wain have shown their interest in the local festival by sending autographed books, which will be raffled to aid the funds.

Why Does He Wait?

UNLESS FUEHRER HITLER SOON makes good his threats to wage the kind of war Great Britain and France expected when hostilities began, the world will probably wonder whether he is not indulging in a big bluff after all. It would not be serious speculation, of course, for the head of the Nazi state now finds himself engaged in a conflict from which he can withdraw without fighting only by accepting conditions tantamount to his own and his system's immediate removal from the realm of international affairs. And there is no evidence whatever that he has any intention of pursuing such a procedure. The question nevertheless persists: What is the cause of the delay?

One answer can be hazarded. Hitler hesitates to let loose his "waves" of bombing planes because he knows very well that for every British city laid in waste a German city will share the same fate. What may have dawned on him by this time, moreover, is the fact that while the people of the United Kingdom are prepared for this aerial visitation, in the mass, the citizens of the Third Reich have been stuffed with so much stupid and fanciful propaganda that the shock British bombs would bring to them will differ materially from reactions provoked by millions of innocent leaflets.

This is not to imply that nasty days are not ahead of us. Troop concentrations behind the Siegfried line are suggestive that major activity there cannot be much longer delayed. In that vital arena, however, "waves" of German troops are assured of a warm reception. The fact nevertheless remains that time is a more potent asset to the Allies than it is to Germany. That is a factor for Herr Hitler to consider every time he, or one of his spokesmen, announces what the forces of Nazidom are about to do to Britain and France.

Now we can direct all our attention to winning the war.

It may be conservatively stated that the Quebec problem has been settled for some time to come.

Mr. Duplessis can't do as the Russians are doing in Poland—call for another poll in the districts that didn't vote right.

"A British novelist took to writing to escape the company of dull friends." Now the friends must read her novels—a neat revenge.

The fighting in subterranean forts sounds strangely like the big push at bargain sales. Thus to the headaches of war are added the horrors of peace.

From the east comes a story of a babe in arms who dines on pork chops and thick steaks. And well it might. The taxpayer who follows us must be strong and healthy.

Canada's Air Program

From Toronto Star

THE ANNOUNCEMENT FROM OTTAWA that 100 flying fields will be required in Canada for the great air project in which this Dominion is to serve the Empire gives some idea of the magnitude of the program. Not only will Trans-Canada Airline ports, such as that at Malton, be utilized, but there will be others on the far-off prairies, remote from all possibility of air-raids. As the "finishing" school for airmen of Australia and New Zealand, as well as for some from Britain itself, and as the training ground also for its own airmen in all stages of their education, the Dominion is going to play a mighty part in the Empire's air effort. The result will be felt long after the war is over and will establish Canada as a leading nation in civil as well as military aviation.

The Canadian program will of course embrace manufacturing, as well as flying, and employment will be given to thousands of men. But this is only one phase of a national war effort which will result in the distribution of huge sums in wages, and these will in turn be spent upon the necessities of life. It is a melancholy, indeed a tragic, fact, that the ensuing prosperity will be the result of international conflict and the sacrifice of many lives. But there it is. Business in general has no reason to regard the war period with anything but confidence.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

COST

THE COST OF WAR, I suppose, is pretty clear to all of us, but people insist on reducing it to terms of dollars and cents. The Christian Science Monitor, for instance, one of the ablest newspapers in the world, has been devoting all its talents and filing system, to finding out what the last war cost in complete detail. The results are interesting, in a purely academic fashion.

It finds, for instance, that the cost of the war, about 350 billions of dollars, would buy five acres of land and a $3,500 house for every family in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and Australia, as well as a $10,000,000 university for all cities of 200,000 or more, and a $5,000,000 library, and leave enough to buy up everything in France and Belgium.

You can go on this way indefinitely. You can figure that a single battleship costs enough to build a great university, that the cost of a fleet of 20 tanks would build a good-sized church, and a few bombers could be transformed into gymnasia for the young or motor roads for the old.

It does no good. The actual fact is that if there had been no war we would not have bought a $3,500 house for every family, we would not have established universities in all cities of 200,000 population, or libraries or churches. We would have gone on just as we were.

It is true, of course, that we would have been a lot better off than we are now, that most of the war costs were a dead loss, since they produced nothing that would sustain human life, but only materials that would destroy it violently. But there is no use assuming that if we stopped the present war today, if we stopped the enormous appalling wastage of it, the wastage of life and materials, that we would then start to use these lives and these materials sensibly. We never have before. We weren't doing it when the war started. We don't know how to run a peace properly. The only thing we do well is wage war.

FROST

LOOKING FROM MY WINDOW as I write this, I can see the havoc of the first frost. Those giant yellow dahlias were aflame with life yesterday—rugged of face, with a genial smile, almost shouting at you as you passed. Those Michaelmas daisies were aflame with mauve coloring, those tuberous begonias laughing in the sunshine, unaware that their great enemy was lurking near, ready to spring. And down in the vegetable patch the vines of the squash and marrows were still brisk and held their great leaves aloft over their hidden children, the sleek round vegetable growths into which they have poured their strength all summer. Nearby, the tomatoes hung to the succulent vines, reddening with a genial grin.

Today the yellow faces of the dahlias are crushed, like a man who has just heard bad news, and the Michaelmas daisies are limp on their stalks. The begonias are prostrate—frozen utterly. In the vegetable patch the vines are flat on the earth and turned black, and their children, the fat marrows and the squashes, are exposed in indecent nakedness, shivering, asking to be taken indoors. Nearby, the tomato vines have collapsed, all the spirit gone out of them, and their fruit has been caught green before it could ripen and become edible. And all about, the oak leaves, frozen at last, broken from their branches, are pouring down in a brown, crackling blizzard.

Autumn is ending, winter is beginning, though you may not know it, in the city yonder. I feel certain by the feel of it today that it is going to be pretty bad.

POPULARITY CONTEST

THE CHIEF ALIENIST of the French government, according to the Washington Evening Star, reports that while last year there were 67 individuals in the chief French mental hospital who believed they were Hitler, this year only 22 patients thought they were.

In America they keep up an elaborate organization to gauge the popularity of movie stars at the box office. In France, apparently, they prefer to watch the popularity of public characters in terms of the number of lunatics who imagine they resemble them. It is a curious arrangement. Apparently you may know you are really a world figure when French mental patients begin to say they are you.

While his popularity has definitely declined in this contest, a good many people still think they are Hitler. What I would like to know is who Hitler thinks he is?

HEIFETZ ON THE SCREEN

By JACK GRANT

An orchid, pure and blooming, to Sam. Goldwyn for his production of "They Shall Have Music," which has concluded, the first showing here. For, all the moving-picture critics of New York notwithstanding, Heifetz moved through a story definitely superior to those which hung around the necks of Paderewski, Damrosch and Stowkowski in their screen debuts. It is said that Heifetz just refused to go through certain parts of the script that asked trivial or improbable things. For this integrity, much thanks. It spared us the pain of seeing a great artist as an accompanist at sentimental children's parties or as a Hollywood "glamour boy." And moreover, it left us fresh and interested, to appreciate the brilliance and virtuosity of Heifetz's playing.

Lindbergh Imperialism

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IT IS AGAINST the background of the Nazi concept of the coming world imperialism that Col. Lindbergh's speech must be considered if it is to be fully comprehensible. For it fits into that picture like the missing pieces of a jigsaw puzzle. It is a very short sketch for a larger blueprint of the role of the United States in the coming Germanic era.

"Behind a policy of peaceful neutrality must stand a policy of war," says the colonel. "A neutrality built on pacifism alone will surely fail."

Thus the colonel cuts himself loose from those who think of neutrality as purely a design for the avoidance of war. "It is essential to define the circumstances for which a nation will fight," indicates that the relinquishment of war as an instrument of national policy is very far from the colonel's mind.

What are the things for which the United States must be prepared to fight, according to Col. Lindbergh?

The colonel defines them. They add up to a political and economic hegemony of the United States on this continent and in the Western Hemisphere.

On "continent" and "hemisphere" the speech is somewhat confusing, but not ambiguous. He says, for instance, "sooner or later the United States must demand the freedom of this continent and its surrounding islands, from European influence." But a second later, "as long as European powers maintain their influence in our hemisphere, we are likely to be involved in their problems."

Plainly, the colonel is not satisfied with the status quo on this hemisphere. And what it must become is expressed in the bold words, "This Western Hemisphere is our domain." The word "our" clearly does not refer to the peoples living on the Western Hemisphere, but solely to the people to whom he is addressing the speech: "Tonight I speak again to the people of this country."

But he is even clearer. He proposes that the United States begin immediately to take possession of the domain by treating Canada exactly as Germany has treated Czechoslovakia and Poland. The arguments he advances are precisely those advanced by the theorists of the new German imperialism toward smaller neighboring states.

"We desire the utmost friendship with the people of Canada. . . . But have they the right to drag this hemisphere into a European war simply because they prefer the Crown of England to American independence? . . . Sooner or later we must demand the freedom of this continent. . . . from the dictates of foreign power."

This is the argument that Canada belongs to the United States Lebensraum and we must defend her. (Canada has never asked us to do so, but it is America's manifest destiny.) Therefore, in return for defence, she must take orders from the United States. There is no suggestion of a good neighbor policy resting upon mutual conference for mutual defence. The argument departs wholly from such a democratic concept. Were the colonel's speech delivered by an American Hitler it would be an ultimatum to Canada following exactly the arguments of the Nazi government in support of its policy toward Czechoslovakia and Poland. Canada may enter into no agreement with a foreign power. (Czechoslovakia must renounce the French-Czech-Soviet alliance; Poland "threatens" Germany because of her agreement with Britain. Canada endangers the United States by "involvement.")

Therefore, by force or by threat of force, the United States must compel Canada to cut herself loose from the British Commonwealth. "Can we rightfully permit any country in America to give bases to foreign warships or send its army abroad?" Col. Lindbergh asks.

FRENCH REBUKE TO ZEALOTS

Translated from article by Jean Charles Harvey in Le Jour (Montreal)

We are 12,000,000 Canadians in this country, 9,000,000 English-speaking and 3,000,000 French-speaking. Our young dwarfs on stilts are shouting in the ears of the British majority in this country: "If you want peace and unity keep on yielding to the wishes of the Quebec minority. If you don't, there is going to be breakage!" It is many a year since the English-speaking Canadians were as insolent as that to the French-speaking Canadians. On the contrary they have shown themselves across the barricade boundlessly patient. Though the English see and hear everything, our numerous agents-provocateurs have not succeeded in rousing them against us. That is admirable. It ought to make us blush.

MONROE DOCTRINE REVISED

From Kingston Whig-Standard
A United States senator wants to bring not only Canada but Australia and New Zealand under the Monroe Doctrine. Nobody in these British dominions will object to the plan so long as the British Isles, which are nearer to the United States than Australia and New Zealand, are also included.

Must Appear at Assize Sitting

Powers infrequently used but granted under the Criminal Code will be exercised by Magistrate Hall in the Provincial Police Court Saturday in dealing with the case of Charles Alvin Grieve, charged with manslaughter as the result of the death of George Lord in a hunting accident at Luxton.

On conclusion of the preliminary hearing yesterday Magistrate Hall indicated he would require Grieve to post securities of $400 to insure his appearance at the next sitting of the Assizes to answer a charge if preferred against him by the Crown.

The procedure differs from the usual form of committing for trial in as much as it is left with Crown counsel to decide whether or not the manslaughter or a lesser charge will be proceeded with.

In announcing this intention Magistrate Hall ruled against the motion for dismissal by F. C. Elliott, defence counsel, when the prosecution evidence was completed last week.

Grieve was called by Mr. Elliott yesterday to give evidence on oath. Previously the only statements made by him which were admitted in evidence were those made voluntarily to police when he was not on oath.

Grieve substantiated previous testimony that he had laid his gun down in the dried-up bottom of Cook's swamp and it discharged as he did so, the bullet striking Lord, who was kneeling over a rabbit hole. Grieve testified the safety catch was on and could offer no explanation as to what caused the discharge of the rifle.

Hallowe'en Dance

Drew 250 Guests

Pumpkins, black cats and all the other symbols of Hallowe'en were in evidence at the Shrine auditorium yesterday evening when the Queen City Order of Eastern Star, held a successful Hallowe'en dance. Mrs. C. M. Parrott, matron of the chapter, was assisted by Mr. J. Flack, the patron, in receiving the guests, who numbered about 250. The orchestra played a program of modern and old-time numbers, the stage being banked with flowers and illuminated with Chinese lanterns and colored lights. Mrs. W. Newell was responsible for the effective decorations. Mrs. W. Broadhurst and Mrs. A. Gough convoked the dance, and bridge was played by non-dancers under the direction of Mr. H. O. Austin. Prizes were given for winners of the spotlight dances. Jim McQuague and Miss Stanton were applauded for their novelty dance numbers. A sit-down supper was served in the lower hall, where the tables were covered with orange and black paper, and arranged with autumn flowers and miniature pumpkins and oranges.

Credit Union Basis Of Real Social Security

Says U.B.C. Speaker Before Women's Institute Conference

Credit unions, if properly used, can make the basis of a program on which to build a real economic and social security, Norman H. M. McKenzie, of the University of British Columbia extension department, told the delegates to the South Vancouver Island District Women's Institute conference this morning.

Democracy depends on the confidence of the common people, he told the gathering, and the credit union program is practical in character and arranged for constructive action. They are planned not merely for the sake of freeing members from loan sharks or for making dividends; they are designed for making people, rather than profits.

The speaker touched upon the origin of credit unions in Europe about 1850, and of their introduction to this continent in 1932. He pointed to the Antigonish and St. Francis Xavier co-operatives as outstanding examples of the value of credit unions. In the Maritimes alone, where the movement started eight years ago, today there are 300 flourishing credit unions which control assets totaling $935,000, owned by the common people.

Literature explaining the formation of credit unions will be available in a few days from the University of B.C. Extension department, Mr. McKenzie announced.

WOULD-AID SOLARIUM

Mrs. J. L. White, the president, in her annual review of the year's activities yesterday expressed "shock" at the Solarium's struggle for funds and the suggestion that unless help is forthcoming it may have to close down. She appealed to every institute to pledge itself for a sum, however small, to keep this worthy institution going.

The handicraft supply, with the assistance of Miss Ravenshill, is working on Lady Tweedsmuir's suggestion that Indian designs be utilized.

Mrs. White also expressed the hope that the institutes, wherever possible, put on either first aid or home nursing classes and do all to help the Red Cross. But in working to win the war, she urged them not to forget to build for peace, through education. "First, we should have peace in our hearts, then in our organization, then in the world," she concluded.

YOUTH TRAINING

Mrs. Spicer's report for the Gulf Islands' district of the Youth Training plan was read by Mrs. S. W. Webster, showing interest in the project. Mrs. T. C. Robson of Vimy also spoke of the organization of classes on Vancouver Island, that at Cedar being so successful that it is being carried on as a club. A group is also ready at Duncan as soon as a hall is available, she stated.

REPORTS ON TRIP

Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, provincial superintendent of Women's Institutes, recounted her experiences this summer at conferences held in the Kootenay and Okanagan districts, Peace River and at Edmonton, and also told of visits made to new institutes in the Kootenay and along the C.N.R. line north of Kamloops. Interest was evident everywhere in handicrafts, but the lack of competent instruction was handicapping in many of the outlying districts. The establishment of dental clinics and public health nurses was encouraging and returned good dividends in improved health in the rural districts, she found. In the Peace River, which already has 23 institutes, she visited the Sudeten German colony, and steps are being taken there with a view to forming an institute next spring.

Appropos of war work, Mrs. MacLachlan brought the suggestion from the Federated W.I. conference held in Edmonton that the Institute Women do all their war work, such as Red Cross, through the Institutes, which have the organization and the machinery to render such service most effectively.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

The meeting, to be held October 31, will be a Hallowe'en masquerade social. All members were requested to wear costumes, and those who do not must pay a forfeit.

Mr. Sidney Knott supported his brother, and Mr. Clarence Sluggett, brother of the bride, and Mr. Norman Parsell were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The guests were received by Mrs. Sluggett, wearing a wine-colored dress with hat and accessories to match, with a corsage bouquet of rosebuds and bouvardia, and Mrs. Cecil, mother of the groom, in a mauve gown and matching accessories, and a corsage of rosebuds and violets. Mauve chrysanthemums were used profusely in decoration of the rooms, and the table was covered with a lace cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, and white and rose tapers in silver holders.

After a trip to Seattle and the Sound cities Mr. and Mrs. Knott will make their home at Brentwood. The bride donned a blue handwoven tweed coat and a corsage bouquet of gardenias and roses for traveling.

The co-operation of the Junior W.A. was appreciated.

Mrs. R. J. Jameson presided, and twenty-eight members attended the meeting. Mrs. P. E. Taylor, convener of dues, reported $30 having been collected since the last meeting. Miss C. Hall reported that she and Mrs. W. A. Luney had visited the patients during the month.

Mrs. H. G. S. Heisterman requested another sewing machine, as the work of the sewing committee had greatly increased, and money for its purchase was voted. Miss Mitchell requested new curtains and cushions for the maternity floor and sunroom of the hospital, and was authorized to make the necessary purchases.

Miss Curry gave a detailed and interesting report of the British Columbia Hospitals' convention.

Clubwomen's News

The Overseas Nursing Sisters branch, Canadian Legion, will meet on Saturday afternoon at the Britannia Branch clubrooms.

Women's Auxiliary to the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council will hold the regular meeting tonight in Labor Hall at 8.

The Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church met in the lecture room on Tuesday evening. Mrs. M. Rule took the devotional period and Miss Gardiner gave a talk on her kindergarten work among the Japanese and Chinese, which was most interesting. A solo was sung by Miss J. McGowan. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Princess Patricia Lodge No. 238, Daughters of St. George, met in the K. of P. Hall recently, with the worthy president, Mrs. E. Duncan, in the chair. Mrs. E. Surke was installed as worthy district deputy, being duly elected by supreme lodge. A report was given of card social held recently and convener thanked. Preparations and plans were discussed for the bazaar and social to be held November 17. Members are asked to note date. After the session a card social was held. Winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. Thornber; second, Mrs. Jane; gentlemen's first, Mrs. Miller; second, Mrs. Gurney; consolation, Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Harris. Refreshments were served by the committee.

Mark Mooseheart Day By Successful Frolic

Victoria Chapter No. 25, Women of the Moose, held a bazaar and frolic in the K. of P. Hall recently. The tables were prettily decorated in autumn colors. The affair was opened by Reginald Hayward. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hayward and introduced by Senior Regent Mrs. M. Carter, who presented Mrs. Hayward with a corsage of carnations and violets and Mr. Hayward with cigarettes and thanks.

Conveners of stalls were: Mrs. Beadle, sewing; Mrs. Mooney, Mrs. Morray, home cooking; Mrs. E. Jane, house-housie; Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Williams, candy.

In the evening a short meeting was held, several members reported sick. Graduate Regent Mrs. Harkin was welcomed back. Plans were made for a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. M. Carter, 1017 Pandora Avenue, October 30. Cards and dancing followed, prize-winners of cards being Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Panting, Mrs. E. Jane, Mrs. Van-Alphen, J. Rednan and Mrs. Orchin. Senior Regent Mrs. M. Carter introduced Bro. Kettle, president of Northwest Association, who spoke briefly on the interest of Mooseheart and the great humanitarian work being done by men and women of the Moose fraternity.

Hudson's Bay Company

MacPhail Plan Is Criticized Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

SELDOM, if ever, has pugilism produced a more interesting story than that of Ceferino Garcia, who knocked out Fred Apostoli in seven rounds to win the world middleweight championship, at least that part of it recognized in New York and California. Garcia was the last fighter imported from the islands by the late Frank Churchill, father of boxing in the Philippines.

The first, the dynamic Pancho Villa, was a world champion. He died as ruler of the flyweights, and the most magnetic attractions in the history of the sport. There were no Filipino champions between Villa and Garcia, although the latter arrived 10 years after Pancho and fought seven more years in the United States before he scaled the heights after 14 years of wearing warlike. Garcia is 29 and has been boxing since he was 15.

Garcia, marked only around the eyes for all his 100 or more rights of record, weighed 142 pounds when he landed in San Francisco in 1932. At 153½ against Apostoli the other night, he was a good 15 pounds heavier than any other Filipino who ever had a pair of gloves laced on his hands.

To his native Manila he is what Primo Carnera was to the rest of the world.

He twice fought for the welterweight title. He lost to Barney Ross on the Carnival of Champions September 23, 1937, and was repelled by Henry Armstrong at Madison Square Garden on November 25, 1938.

Following the Armstrong engagement, Garcia's manager, George Parnassus, a Los Angeles Greek, insisted that doing 147 pounds killed whatever chance his warrior had. He decided therefore to let him battle as a middleweight.

Garcia's best weapon is ballyhooed as the bolo punch, which is merely a swinging uppercut delivered in the good old-fashioned way and exactly opposite to the fashion in which the Filipino once brought the bolo down upon an enemy's head.

Garcia won his title just 23 years after the first little brown man climbed through the ropes. There might still be no fighting in the Philippines, or the start might have been delayed had not Frank Churchill contracted a skin disease in Alaska in 1898. Returning to San Francisco, Churchill was advised by a doctor to take a trip to the tropics.

So it was that Churchill, born in Boston and raised on Prince Edward Island, went to Manila in 1901 to become chief clerk in the Customs House.

Churchill started promoting fights in Manila in 1908, with Stewart Tait, today a millionaire in the islands, and one or two other American friends as partners. Their talent came from the army, navy, and marine vessels that dropped anchor in Manila Bay. Such a thing as a Filipino fighter was undreamed of.

Boxing boomed. Churchill and his associates built the Olympic Athletic Club on the outskirts of Manila in 1913, but it was not until 1916 that the first Filipino fighter made his bow . . . by accident and in an emergency.

The first Filipino fighter was Leoncio Bernabe, who drove Churchill's calesa, or two-wheeled carriage behind tiny batangas, ponies half the size of an American horse.

Bernabe volunteered to substitute for a main event who was ill. Bernabe was the pioneer of Filipino pugilists. There followed Denicio Cabanela, Elnio Flores, Villa, Pete Sarmiento, Clever Senicio, Johnny Hill, Fernandez, Speedy Dado, Young Tommy, Young Nationalista, Garcia, Pablo Dano, Small Montana . . . a long line.

Villa was the daddy of them all . . . earned $300,000 in two years in American rings. Ceferino Garcia is a typical Filipino fighter, with the exception that he scaled the heights at 29, when most fighters, including little brown men, are through.

Little Larks Are Leaders

Little Larks advanced to take over undisputed leadership in the second division table tennis league race last evening when they trounced Sylvester U Drive, last year's champions, 28 to 8.

Another one-sided victory was posted by Royal Arcanums. They handed Aces a 26 to 10 beating.

Larks were sparked to victory by the playing of Prior and Elworthy who won seven out of eight games. A. and E. Seed were high for the losers, each winning three.

Setting the pace for Arcanums were Ken Lawson and Ricketts. They registered eight straight wins, while another clubmate, McKenzie, won six of his matches.

Individual scores follow:

Man o' War Was Born Too Soon

CHICAGO—For a champion, Man o' War's timing wasn't so good. He came along 20 years too soon.

The champ was born in 1917, so his brief racing career was confined to the seasons of 1919 and 1920. When he defeated Canada's champion, Sir Barton, in the 21st start of his career, Man o' War became the greatest money winner the American turf had known. His winnings totaled $249,465, for in 20 of those 21 starts the big red son of Fair Play was the victor.

First thoroughbred to dethrone Man o' War in the money-winning lists was Exterminator. "Old Bones" is still generally considered Man o' War's nearest rival for the championship of all American race horses. "He was two years older than Man o' War, but his career extended much longer. After eight years of racing, during which he started 100 times and won 50 races, Exterminator had amassed $252,996, barely eclipsing Man o' War's figure.

Then in the 1920's the purses began to go up, the racing associations began to increase stake values. Along came Harry F. Sinclair's Zev. In 43 starts Zev won $313,639, pushing both Exterminator and Man o' War into the background in this respect.

SUN BEAU'S RECORD
In 1929 and 1930 stake values reached a peak. The Belair Stud's Gallant Fox, making only 17 starts, won $328,165, and of this $308,275 was won in a single season of 10 trips to the post.

Along came another durable horse, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, and before that great cup horse was retired he has amassed $376,744 in prize money, with 33 wins in 74 starts over a period of five years.

Sun Beau's mark still stands. Seabiscuit, Equipoise, Mate, Top Flight, War Admiral, Blue Larkspur, Twenty Grand, Display and Victorian all have passed Man o' War's figure, and the champ now stands 14th on the list, ready to slip to 15th as soon as Challenor wins another stake.

But if Man o' War had been foaled later, at a time when there was more money to be won, it would be a different story. By winning in 1938 and 1939 exactly the same races he won in 1919 and 1920, Man o' War would today be the money-winning champion of all time. Despite the short career of only 21 starts, Big Red would have earned $389,850 these last two years, just $13,106 more than Sun Beau.

Shutout For U.B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—University of British Columbia Thunderbirds unleashed a powerful line and aerial attack to blast Victoria Football Club in the Pacific Coast Football League standings Saturday in a match against St. Andrew's at Athletic Park.

The Saints are riding along in the top berth in the company of North Shore United.

For the last two weeks officials of the Victoria club have been concentrating their efforts on developing a smoother-working forward line. That has been the main weakness in the team this season and the elimination of individualism by teamwork is necessary before Victoria can make its full force felt in intercity competition.

The local line-up for Saturday's game, which will start at 3, was not available today.

From Vancouver comes word that Manager Jack Copeland of the Scots will have his strongest team on hand for the battle and he appears confident of victory.

The Saints are going to try a couple of line-up switches for Saturday's game. Johnny Craig, left half, will be moved up to inside left position to work with George Greig. Young McClatchey will operate at left-back, replacing Mel Manzer. Two newcomers to Victoria fans will be Max Osovsky and Marcel Termino. The former played wing for Royals but will work at centre half, where he seems to be more at home. Termino was recruited from the junior ranks and has plenty of promise. Alex Christie, left winger, is well known here and is rated as one of the best players in the province.

SCHEDULE
Second round of the Pacific Coast Football League schedule, announced yesterday in Vancouver, follows:

November 4—St. Saviours vs. St. Andrews.

November 11—Victoria vs. Radials.

High School in Soccer Victory

Yesterday afternoon Victoria High School scored a 2 to 1 victory over Victoria College in the first interschool soccer game of the current term. The game was well contested and territorial play was fairly even with many end to end rushes. Both forward lines functioned in good order, but the weakness of the college defence in comparison with that of the High School was the difference between the two teams.

The first half ended scoreless, and it was not until the half way mark of the final period that Louie McCorkall, on a pass from O'Donoghue, blasted the ball past Twitchell for the first High School goal. Soon after Jim Robinson passed directly in centre and Hedley Rowell beat Masters for the lone college tally. It was not until three minutes from time that Dick O'Donoghue scored from McCorkall's rebound to conclude the scoring for the game.

Teams follow:
High School—Masters, Hudlin, Carter, O'Donoghue, Popham, Lee, Gauthier, McCorkall, Gardner, Horne and Evans.

College—Twitchell, Rolfs, Swainson, Anderson, Jennings, Pickford, Rowell, Gush, Henderson, Brown and Robinson.

Seabiscuit Returns

SAN FRANCISCO—Seabiscuit, champion of the American turf last year, is coming back to the races.

At least his owner, Charles S. Howard, and "Silent" Tom Smith, his trainer, have decided to put him in light training for an attempted comeback. The champion arrived at Tanforan Tuesday and if he stands up under light exercise will be pointed for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in March. The son of Hard Tack was withdrawn on the eve of the 1939 classic at Santa Anita when he suffered a leg ailment and was taken to Howard's Ridgewood Ranch in northern California for rest and leg treatments.

TAKE NO CHANCES
Howard's greatest ambition in horse racing is to have Sea-

biscuit become biggest money winner of all time but if the champion shows the slightest inclination to favor his injured leg when galloping he will be retired to the stud or a life of ease at the Ridgewood ranch. He has already earned $340,880 in purse money. Seabiscuit twice missed the $100,000 Los Angeles stake by an "eyelash" and when he was scratched last March, his stable companion Kayak II went on to win the "pot of gold."

Present plans for the horse that decisively defeated War Admiral in a match race for the unofficial American turf title are workout at Tanforan with the possibility that he may be entered in one of the handicaps there next month before shipping to Santa Anita for the New Year opening.

Hockey Gossip

Only three Montreal Canadiens to date have signed contracts, and two of them are newcomers to the team. Signatures of Earl Robinson, who played with Chicago Black Hawks last season, and Ray Gettiffe, former Boston Bruins, were affixed to contracts yesterday. Manager Jules Dugal said Cy Wentworth, veteran defence man, is the only other player signed.

Return engagement: Bill Stewart, the former N.H.L. referee who guided Chicago to a Stanley Cup in 1937-38 in his first try as a manager, will reappear in his old role at the Babe Siebert memorial game in Montreal Sunday. The "miracle man of hockey," who resigned from the Black Hawks the following season, was named last night to officiate in the all-star game, with Frank "King" Clancy as linesman. Stewart will referee in the N.H.L. this season.

There's a youngster with Toronto Maple Leafs who might sway the balance between being finalists and Stanley Cup winners for the Leafs. Young Bill Taylor, a star last year with Oshawa Generals, Canadian junior champions, has been going great guns in practice games of the Maple Leafs, who twice in the last two years have been eliminated after reaching the final cup round. Billy scored two goals last night as the whites tied the blues, 3 to 3, in an exhibition game staged by the Toronto team.

Bidding has started for the sweater worn by Babe Siebert in his last season with Montreal Canadiens before his tragic death in Lake Huron this summer. Louis Letourneau, a director of Canadiens, bid $100 as the first offer. The sweater will be auctioned off in conjunction with the Siebert memorial game.

It looks as if new blood was what Detroit Red Wings needed. The Red Wings defeated their Indianapolis farm team, 5 to 2, last night and all five goals were scored by players who as yet haven't completed a full season with Jack Adams' team.

Three players who joined Detroit from Pittsburgh during last season—Don Deacon, Syd Abel and Buck Jones—scored a goal apiece, while Cecil Dillon, newly purchased from New York Rangers, and Don Grosso, an amateur last season, scored the other two.

The injury jinx that hounded Doug Young during the last two years as a Detroit rearguard has trailed him to Montreal Canadiens. Young was struck in the face with the puck and needed two stitches to close the wound during his second practice.

Municipalities Convention

Study Victoria Plan To Keep Up Pensions

A two-point resolution presented by Victoria to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, aimed at securing legislation to permit the city to continue superannuation payments for men who enlist for war service, was referred by the convention yesterday to its new executive for study.

The resolution was required following discovery by Victoria that no provision existed in the Municipal Superannuation Act to care for the procedure it had adopted.

The amendment sought by the city to the act, in general terms, follows:

"Each employer to whom this act applies may, notwithstanding the provisions of this act, in respect of any employee who may have enlisted or may enlist for naval, military or air service in the present war, and during the period said employee is a member of the Canadian or British naval, military or air service, make the contribution required by Section 8 or Section 10 and may make a contribution equal to 4 per centum of the salary of said employee at the date of his enlistment to take the place of the contribution required from said employee under Section 6."

The second part of the requested amendment reads:

"For the purposes of this section, service by an employee in the naval, military or air service

WANT BEER LICENSE FEES

Action on that point followed approval of a resolution from Esquimalt which would ask the Provincial Government to return beer parlor license fees to the municipality in which parlors operated to assist in defraying costs of extra policing, traffic control and other additional work.

The convention further endorsed a general resolution applying to the Provincial Department of Municipalities for an extension of one year in the existing regulations which permit municipalities to forego regular payments to their sinking funds.

Survey failed in its move to have all gasoline taxes collected in a municipality expended solely in the municipality from which they were taken.

A Kootenay resolution seeking power from the provincial government to permit a municipality to build up a reserve from its current revenue to meet costs of major machinery on other replacements, was laid over.

To circumvent Nanaimo's proposal asking the province to stop bondholders' demands for payment in other than Canadian funds on municipal issues, a special committee brought in a general motion asking governments and their departments to show patriotism by calling for payment in Canadian funds only. The motion was approved.

Alderman W. L. Morgan, Victoria, believed coupons would have to be marked "paid in Canadian funds" to prevent some intermediary from unscrupulously taking advantage of the exchange in the course of the transaction.

MINIMUM WAGE MOVE LOST

The convention declined support for Prince Rupert's move to exempt unskilled men over 60 from provisions of the Male Minimum Wage Act.

Merritt's resolution to have the Indian Department assume costs of all Indian liquor cases was endorsed.

A resolution from the executive dealing with superannuation questions, was deferred to the incoming executive with power to act.

Another, calling on a municipality to pay transportation costs of indigent patients from their municipality to a tuberculosis institution, but not costs of transfer from one institution to another, was also endorsed. Similar action was taken on a third executive proposal which would increase from 80 cents a day to $1.25 per day charges levied against municipal tuberculosis cases for time in hospital in excess of 14 days after the patient was declared ready for discharge.

Marquette's request for power, sought by the council of that municipality, to refuse extraordinary school expenditures, was approved.

The convention supported

Trail's plea for permission to use sinking fund surplus, in part at least, for the retirement of debt principal, when an issue fell due.

Penticton lost its resolution to amend poll tax regulations to have poll tax paid where an individual works or resides, but not both. A second clause to avoid duplicate payment of the poll tax, or payment of the latter by a person paying taxes in an unorganized territory, won support.

ASK OTTAWA FINANCE GUARDS

Approval was given Salmon Arm's resolution asking the federal government to absorb costs of posting guards on public utilities. E. H. Bridgman told the convention it was possible to take out insurance against sabotage the results arising from the disruption of the utility. Mayor W. C. Hamilton, Port Alberni, noted.

New Westminster's resolution to relieve householders of the necessity of making a personal oath before the city clerk or delivering it in person to gain registration as a householder on the voters' list was endorsed.

The convention amended the union's constitution to make the immediate past president, provided he retained public office, a member of the executive automatically. One representative from villages would also become an executive member as the result of a second amendment.

Coquitlam won support for a move to secure rules and forms for applications by municipalities to the provincial public utilities commission.

The meeting referred to its incoming executive Courtney's resolution calling on the federal government to alter its basis of taxation on consumers of electricity. Courtney spokesmen claimed the tax should be based on the quantity used, not on the price paid for it. The existing tax on price was discriminatory against those required to pay high rates, they held.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipalities, suggested each municipality prepare its own case against what it considered discrimination on the tax and forward them to the Department of Municipalities for consolidation and presentation to Ottawa.

Mayor McGavin On Executive

Mayor Andrew McGavin, Victoria, was named a member of the executive of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities as the business sessions of the annual convention drew to a close in the City Hall yesterday afternoon.

Other members of that group include Alderman John Bennett, Vancouver; Reeve R. M. Grauer, Richmond; Reeve Alex Hope, Langley; Mayor T. A. Love, Grand Forks; Reeve R. C. MacDonald, Coquitlam; Reeve G. N. Ryder, Chilliwack; and Mayor C. E. Scanlan, Kamloops. Reeve J. B. Leyland, West Vancouver, as retiring president, automatically became a member, provided he remains in municipal public life, and Col. E. Mallandaine, Creston, chairman of commissioners, was appointed delegate from villages to the executive.

Revelstoke was named convention city for the 1940 sessions of the union by a standing vote which decided a deadlock on the written ballot. Kamloops had tied with the former city on the first vote.

Following precedent, Reeve Leyland was elected a life-member of the union after votes of thanks had been extended to him and the 1939 officers for their conscientious work during the year. Thanks were also tendered to the resolutions committee, the mayor and the council of Victoria for the hospitality they had shown in accepting the postponed convention, to the staff of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory for their courtesies to visiting delegates, to New Westminster for acting as hosts at last night's dinner and to the press.

Union Opposes Aid For Teachers' Pension Fund

The Union of British Columbia Municipalities left with a special committee yesterday the duty of framing a strong resolution opposing any action which would saddle municipalities with the burden of assisting in rehabilitation of the school teachers' superannuation fund.

That action was taken following announcement by retiring President J. B. Leyland, reeve of West Vancouver, of information indicating the teachers' federation would apply shortly to the provincial government for action on the fund.

The convention accepted an invitation from the B.C. School Trustees' Association to send a delegate to its annual meeting in the Vancouver Hotel on November 13 and left with the executive appointment of a representative to attend the teachers' parley to study the superannuation issue.

Reeve Leyland expressed strenuous opposition on behalf of the union to any move which would force onto the municipal taxpayer the burden of rehabilitating a fund in the creation of which the municipal councils had no part.

On the recommendation of Alderman George C. Miller, chairman of the special superannuation committee, the union decided to appoint a delegate to the school teachers' convention to keep an eye on the pension issue.

Alderman Miller stated costs of the new civic employees' superannuation scheme were more expensive to the employer than had been thought. They would, however, be reduced, he stated.

He expressed regret over the position of certain former employees whose incomes had been drastically reduced under the new terms. The reduction in benefits was, however, inevitable if any fund were to be retained.

Alderman Miller thought the present act would cope with future requirements under existing terms.

Tourist Outlook Bright for B.C.

A bright outlook for British Columbia's tourist trade was seen by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipalities, as he reviewed beautification schemes conducted throughout the province in conjunction with unemployment relief projects sponsored by the provincial government in an address to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities delegates at their annual convention dinner in the Empress Hotel last night.

The minister referred to the development which had been carried on in park lands throughout B.C., and remarked that, with the exchange rate so favorable to the United States, the tourist attractions of British Columbia should be doubly appealing to visitors from across the border.

Prefacing his remarks, the minister, who said he was attending the 34th annual convention of the union, called for continued cooperation not only for his department, but also for the individual municipalities represented at the gathering, noting they gained strength through their combined efforts.

He told the meeting his work as minister of municipalities, was to help them.

Briefly the minister reviewed the unemployment problem which faced the government when it assumed office and the methods adopted to solve that problem.

"The people of Vancouver Island do not appreciate the benefits they have received from beautification work on the island," he said.

"Oh yes we do," delegates replied.

He touched upon the tourist potentialities of the Forbidden Plateau, the attractions of Vancouver's north shore, Seymour, Hollyburn, Cultus Lake, the Peace Arch area, the Kamloops park district, Garibaldi Park, which he said would far exceed Yellowstone when it became publicized, and other districts to which he believed tourists would throng.

NEW BEAUTY SPOTS

"The municipalities are to be congratulated on the beauty spots they have been able to open up through unemployed labor," he declared.

Turning to the improvement in the lumber industry, he declared last year the biggest in that field in the province's history as far as the British market was concerned, and he forecast that 1939 would set an all-time record.

Concluding, he reminded the delegates he was the minister for municipalities, ready to assist them in any legitimate proposal they had to put before the government.

E. H. Bridgman, deputy minister of municipal affairs, in proposing the toast to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, emphasized the importance of the union representations for smaller districts. He considered the union one of the most decisive factors in the government of this province and stated the stronger it grew the more valuable it became, not only to the municipalities, but the people of British Columbia.

Reeve J. B. Leyland, West Vancouver, retiring president of the union, paid a glowing tribute to the work of Mr. Bridgman on behalf of the municipalities. While the municipalities might differ among themselves, they were united in any move that was for the benefit of the taxpayers, he said. Reeve Leyland found a better spirit prevailing in negotiations between municipalities and the province in recent years. He spoke of existing emergent con-

LELAND HONORED

Following his remarks he received a certificate of life membership in the union.

Alderman George C. Miller, Vancouver, sponsored a vote of thanks to New Westminster, hosts at the dinner, to which Mayor Fred Hume replied.

Mayor Hume spoke of the outstanding personalities who had visited the province during the year, prior to and including Their Majesties. He introduced members of the New Westminster council and officials of that municipality.

Reeve R. Grauer, Richmond, proposed a toast to Victoria, declaring it one of the outstanding cities of the province and the ideal location for a convention.

Mayor Andrew McGavin, replying in humorous vein, thanked Mayor Hume for his hospitality and suggested the decision of the union to hold its delayed convention in Victoria provided an example to other organizations when they looked for a location in which to meet. He voiced thanks to Esquimalt and Oak Bay for assistance in entertaining the visiting delegates.

Mayor O. L. Jones, newly elected president of the union, proposing the toast to the province, spoke of the affection all municipalities had for British Columbia.

"We may differ politically and religiously, but we reach common ground in our love for British Columbia," he declared. It was difficult, he noted, to operate a municipality and twice as difficult to run a province. He had not, he said, ever heard criticism of the work of the department of Municipal Affairs.

"The signatories of this manifesto, however sincere, have gone far beyond the limits of what is wise and proper in time of war," said the statement, issued through Rev. Dr. Gordon A. Sisco, of Toronto, secretary of the sub-executive of the General Council of the church.

"The sub-executive would take this opportunity of proclaiming the entire and unfailing loyalty of the United Church of Canada to His Majesty the King, and its steady purpose to support him in the present dire struggle in every way which is open and proper to the church," the statement continued.

Last Friday at Toronto 75 ministers of the church met and expressed public disapproval of "this or any other war." The manifesto declared all nations "share in the responsibility which makes war necessary." One of the signatories of the manifesto was Rev. Richard D. Roberts, former Moderator of the church.

The statement last night said in part the "attention of the sub-executive has been drawn to a publication in the United Church Observer entitled 'A Witness Against the War,' signed by some 75 of our ministers."

The sub-executive's statement said "We think that too much attention has been given to a document which emanates from no official body in the church and we desire to emphasize the attitude and feeling of the church as a whole."

The statement added that since the outbreak of war presbyteries from coast to coast had met and considered the church's stand in the struggle.

"Not a single presbytery has expressed itself in the terms of the spirit of this manifesto. On the contrary, resolutions expressing loyalty have been adopted," it said.

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese troops have begun a "peace offensive" by means of huge loudspeakers. They called Chinese troops in the vicinity of Hangchow to abandon their anti-Japanese sentiments and listen to the stop-war plea of Wang Chingwei, former Premier of China, and who now is co-operating with the Japanese.

The loudspeakers were set up on the mile-wide Chientang River, which the Japanese have not been able to cross.

Arrange Fires For Hallowe'en

Plans for half a dozen Hallowe'en bonfires in various sections of Victoria next Tuesday evening were completed this week by the special committee under Alderman S. H. Okell, parks committee chairman.

The location of the fires, together with the groups who will be in charge of them, follows:

Oswego and Niagara Streets, James Bay Parent-Teacher Association; Garbally Road, west of Douglas Street, Burnside and Quadra School Parent-Teacher Associations; Victoria West School, program in school auditorium and fire in field behind school, Victoria West Parent-Teacher Association; Central Park, near Queens Avenue and Quadra Street, Kinsmen Club; Spencer Park, opposite Oaklands School, Oaklands Parent-Teacher Association; St. Charles and Brooke Streets, St. James Douglas and Margaret Jenkins Parent-Teacher Association. All fires will be lighted at 7 p.m.

To entertain the groups assembled at each fire a troupe from the Y.M.C.A. will give exhibitions at the first three in the above list at 7.30, 8 and 8.30 respectively. At similar times a group from the Provincial Recreational Girls' gymnastic squad will visit the latter three.

Candy, peanuts and apples will be distributed among the children who will vie with one another for prizes offered for the best masquerade costumes and other contests.

Firecrackers may not be set off at the fires and parents are advised to avoid use of highly inflammable material in their children's costumes.

Assistance in supervision will be provided by the city police department, fire department, parks department, St. John Ambulance Association and the Rover Scouts.

UNITED CHURCH'S LOYALTY DECLARED

TORONTO (CP)—The sub-executive of the United Church of Canada, following a special meeting at which was considered the recent manifesto in which 75 ministers of the church opposed the present war, issued a statement declaring "our regret at the action of the signatories in making their manifesto public."

"The signatories of this manifesto, however sincere, have gone far beyond the limits of what is wise and proper in time of war," said the statement, issued through Rev. Dr. Gordon A. Sisco, of Toronto, secretary of the sub-executive of the General Council of the church.

"The sub-executive would take this opportunity of proclaiming the entire and unfailing loyalty of the United Church of Canada to His Majesty the King, and its steady purpose to support him in the present dire struggle in every way which is open and proper to the church," the statement continued.

Last Friday at Toronto 75 ministers of the church met and expressed public disapproval of "this or any other war." The manifesto declared all nations "share in the responsibility which makes war necessary." One of the signatories of the manifesto was Rev. Richard D. Roberts, former Moderator of the church.

The statement last night said in part the "attention of the sub-executive has been drawn to a publication in the United Church Observer entitled 'A Witness Against the War,' signed by some 75 of our ministers."

The sub-executive's statement said "We think that too much attention has been given to a document which emanates from no official body in the church and we desire to emphasize the attitude and feeling of the church as a whole."

The statement added that since the outbreak of war presbyteries from coast to coast had met and considered the church's stand in the struggle.

"Not a single presbytery has expressed itself in the terms of the spirit of this manifesto. On the contrary, resolutions expressing loyalty have been adopted," it said.

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese troops have begun a "peace offensive" by means of huge loudspeakers. They called Chinese troops in the vicinity of Hangchow to abandon their anti-Japanese sentiments and listen to the stop-war plea of Wang Chingwei, former Premier of China, and who now is co-operating with the Japanese.

The loudspeakers were set up on the mile-wide Chientang River, which the Japanese have not been able to cross.

Hungry Octopus At New Aquarium

Except for the octopus Vancouver's new aquarium is a great success, according to R. Rowe Holland, parks board chairman, who was in Victoria yesterday seeing the government about a foreshore lease for Sunset Beach on English Bay.

The trouble with the genus octopus is that the male is inclined to be very hungry, says Mr. Rowe Holland. He became so hungry last Sunday that he ate Mrs. Octopus.

"But we'll get him another mate," said Mr. Rowe Holland, "and keep his appetite satisfied."

The chairman said the new aquarium at English Bay open a week, attracted 1,600 people last Sunday. Fish native to B.C. waters, all caught around English Bay and Coal Harbor, are on display and now include more than 100 varieties.

James A. Richardson Estate $3,423,412

WINNIPEG (CP)—Application has been made in the Surrogate Court for probate of the will of James A. Richardson, well-known financier, who died June 26. Executors of the will are the widow and G. W. Hutchins, both of Winnipeg.

Gross value of the estate is $3,423,412, of which $3,382,974 consists of shares of stock. In addition to the assets shown in the application for probate, there was approximately $1,600,000 in life insurance.

Mr. Richardson is survived by the widow and four children, and the entire estate has been left to them in order that the business of the companies in which Mr. Richardson was interested can be carried on.

Charitable bequests were omitted from the will because of an understanding between Mr. Richardson and his executors and beneficiaries that they should use their judgment and discretion in carrying on donations to charitable, educational and religious institutions in which he was interested.

Mr. Richardson was head of the grain company which still bears his name and was connected with many other enterprises.

OHIO TO VOTE ON AGE PENSIONS

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio will vote November 7 on a controversial old age pension plan comparable in scope to that already in effect in Colorado and the "ham and eggs" proposal in California.

It would amend Ohio's constitution to guarantee to persons who have retired from gainful employment and who are 60 years or older, a monthly income on this scale: $50 to single persons, $80 to married couples (thus a couple with an independent income of $40 would receive a $40 pension to make their total $80; a couple with no income would receive $80 outright.)

Ohio's present pension system, limited to persons 65 or older, provides maximum benefits of $50 monthly, with the federal government paying half. With need a primary consideration, the average pension is $23 monthly. These go to 117,000 persons.

The proposed pension system, known as the "Bigelow Plan" for its principal sponsor, former Congressman Herbert Bigelow, provides two new taxes. One is a state income tax equal to one-fourth of the federal income tax. The other is a 2 per cent levy on "land," which as a matter of definition has become an important issue.

The Assembly, with the Council, which will meet at the same time, will be called on to elect world court judges, approve a budget reducing expenses of the International Labor Office and consider a plan to unify all non-political activities of the League into an independent body.

Approval was given Richmond's resolution asking the relief department of the province for consolidation of regulations and raising other technical points.

Help Soldiers And Pensioners

Motions to aid men on active service who might fall behind in their tax payments and to extend poll tax exemption to returned pensioners, featured war resolutions passed by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities in convention session at the City Hall yesterday.

But the convention left in abeyance a Nanaimo-sponsored move aimed at relieving municipalities of unfavorable exchange rates on due bond payments arising from war conditions.

The Nanaimo proposal would have asked the Dominion Government to stop demands from holders of Canadian bonds for payments in other than Canadian funds. It was referred to a special committee for further study.

Mayor V. B. Harrison said the issue arose over certain activities of the holders of a block of debentures who demanded payment in the most preferential location.

Alderman George Miller, Vancouver; R. F. Blandy, Oak Bay, and Reeve John Hunter, Surrey, were averse to a sweeping resolution which might be taken as prejudicial to the credit of any municipality.

Mayor Fred Hume, New Westminster, noted municipalities had taken advantage of favorable exchange in previous years. Why, he asked, had Nanaimo offered the bonds payable in New York?

To secure a more favorable price when they were sold in the open market, replied Mayor Harrison.

Kelowna's resolution to widen the poll tax exemptions to all returned men who are pensioners, was carried.

North Cowichan's move to reserve from tax sale property owned by men on active service until one full tax year after cessation of hostilities, was endorsed.

Ladysmith failed in its move to prevent school trustees or trustee candidates from standing for any other elective municipal office.

Coquitlam secured support for a move to gain more control over homestead lands.

Revelstoke's resolution covering penalties on water rate arrears also passed.

New Westminster's resolution asking for permission to name and control their own market auctioneer, was left undecided on the original vote. On the second vote the motion failed.

The convention declined support for a Coldstream move against aliens guilty of subversive activities, on the ground it was not a municipal matter.

The Kamloops' resolution aimed at seeking revision of truck licensing fees regulations to cover heavier trucks from outside centres which use municipal roads, was carried.

A technical motion from North Vancouver in respect to municipal employees' superannuation, was referred to the incoming executive.

Approval was given Richmond's resolution asking the relief department of the province for consolidation of regulations and raising other technical points.

Take off the mask of premature age

Why do some people keep youthful, while others grow old quickly, before their time? Are you too busy to learn the truth? Are you prepared to face the facts and to admit them, if they apply to you? We say you may find new joy in living if you read and heed these frank statements.

Thousands of people just don't bother to do anything about constipation. They even refuse to believe they are constipated. They think that if a person is regular, that is all that matters. Occasionally they take "a good dose of something" when the need is evident. That is the infinitely not the way. The way to keep feeling fit, to prolong the years of youthful enthusiasm, is to keep the entire system free as possible from impurities and poisons. That means the blood, the kidneys, the intestines and the bowels. To do that your body must get certain minerals in some way.

We make no exaggerated claims for Kruschen Salt, but we recommend the "little daily dose" because Kruschen contains several valuable mineral salts in highly system form. Each salt has its particular function. In combination they help rid your system of excess poisons each day. Thus free from the aging effects of accumulated impurities you are much less apt to suffer from splitting headaches, acid indigestion, rheumatic pains, listlessness, because your excretory organs are encouraged to function normally.

Thousands upon thousands of people throughout the world refer to the general well-being it imparts as "that million dollar Kruschen feeling". Start "the little daily dose" right away and just you see for yourself! At all drug counters 25c, 45c, 75c.

Few Bills For Legislature

One of the lightest lists foreshadowed for the session of the British Columbia Legislature which opens next Tuesday.

With the war putting most civil problems in the background there is little of a major controversial nature in sight at present, except possibly the Elections Act, which is to be overhauled and brought up to date. This bill was tabled last year and will be put before a special House committee to work out details.

Revision of the Water Act is also planned, but only to bring it in line with the Public Utilities Act, which placed some of the functions in the hands of the utilities commission.

The only special war measure indicated so far is an amendment to mining laws which will enable prospectors and mineral claim holders to keep their properties while they are unable, because of active service, to do necessary assessment work. The government as yet has not indicated whether it will submit a moratorium on real estate agreements of enlisted men.

Various changes in municipal laws will be presented to the House. Three private bills are listed, including the Vancouver charter amendments, an amendment to the Royal Plate Glass Insurance Company of Canada Act and an amendment to the Shaughnessy Heights Building Restriction Act.

P.T.A. COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

A meeting of the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council was held in the School Board room last night. School Trustee P. E. George was in the chair.

Members of the local council extended a welcome to Mrs. H. Beckwith and Miss C. Murray, delegates from the Monterey Parent-Teacher Association, a newly affiliated organization. The Tillamook P.T.A. was represented by M. Glasbell. W. H. Dawson, a member of the Saanich School Board, was a visitor.

The local council decided to send a letter of thanks to the Vancouver executive for hospitality extended to Victoria and district representatives who attended the British Columbia Federal P.T.A. Convention, held in Vancouver in September.

Mrs. E. G. Day presented a report on the literature depot of the local P.T.A. at the Hudson's Bay Company store. Mrs. Day received a vote of thanks from the members for her work in organizing the depot.

A report on the membership drive was given. It was recommended that a publicity convenor be appointed, and A. G. Bishop was chosen in that capacity.

A report on the funds gathered at the home-cooking stall in David Spencer Halling store was given. These funds are set aside for the transportation of speakers to the council. The advertising report was given by Mrs. G. Ingle.

A discussion was held to determine whether or not Victoria should adopt rural schools for the distribution of good used magazines.

Finns' Freedom Stated Menaced

HELSINGFORS (AP) — An authoritative source today declared Soviet Russia's new modified demands on Finland still contained points on which Finland refused to yield.

After Dr. Juho Paasikivi had spoken for an hour today with President Kyyosti Kallio, Foreign Minister Eljas Erkkö and Premier Aimo Cajander, a foreign office spokesman said there was "no doubt" negotiations with Russia could be continued and that the Finnish delegation headed by Dr. Paasikivi would go to Moscow for the third time.

What points Russia has raised were not disclosed, but they were said to involve what Finns consider the republic's independence and neutrality.

Retired Group Will Live Here

Vancouver Island is expected, in the next few years, to become the home of a score of officials of great South American oil companies.

Whites who have lived in the humid heat of South America have been unable, on their retirement, to live in eastern Canada, or even in the British Isles. Pneumonia, as a rule, rapidly takes them off.

V. N. Andreev, engineer with the Canadian branch of the Imperial Oil Company at El Centro, 600 miles from the coast of Colombia, was in Victoria this week making a preliminary survey for establishment of homes on Vancouver Island for a number of his colleagues.

"Vancouver Island is a paradise—it is the most perfect part of North America," he said. "It is an ideal place for people who have lived in the tropics."

The oil officials who have their eyes on this island hope to take up small acreage and raise chickens and other small stock and grow their own vegetables and fruit.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Andreev were taken to see some properties on the southern end of the island by J. R. Terry, B.C. poultry commissioner.

"They were more than delighted with the island and will certainly advise their friends to retire here," Mr. Terry said.

Mr. and Mrs. Andreev are Russian-born but lived in England before going to South America. She was a nurse, trained at Guy's Hospital, London, and he was in the Russian Embassy in London before the war.

Scottish Reports First 'Casualty'

Canadian Scottish Regiment is in the Jubilee Hospital today.

He is Drummer Jim Gibson, and his injury a broken leg.

Gibson was hurt in a football game between the First and Second Battalions of the Scottish. Playing centre forward for the first Battalion he crashed into the opposing goal-keeper and the leg was broken. All ranks were very sympathetic.

The game ended in a 2-all draw. Training activities among the Scottish are slowing down this week, while the men are being inoculated. They are allowed time off from their rigorous routine to recover from the effects of the "shots."

Wet canteens for the troops are being operated in strict conformity with provincial liquor laws and under control of military headquarters.

Most units are being allowed to serve beer in their canteens, Brigadier J. C. Stewart, the D.O.C., said. The permanent units have always had their wet canteen, but those that were formerly militia, did not have messes for the men. Now they can have them by application through military offices and the Liquor Board gives automatic approval to those that are authorized by the district office.

Claims Right to Know Board Policy

The Lower Mainland Dairy Products Board was elected by the farmers who are therefore entitled to inquire into its operations and policy, said Senator J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., in continuing the case for the respondents in the appeal taken by W. E. Williams, K.C., chairman of the board, before the Court of Appeal this morning.

Mr. Williams, represented by C. H. Locke, K.C., is appealing a ruling of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald that he must answer certain questions in cross-examination in the Supreme Court action of Turner's Dairy et al vs. Mr. Williams, E. D. Barrow, and Acton Kilby, members of the board, et al.

"There is enough bureaucracy now without granting immunity to such organizations as these which are elected by farmers," Senator Farris said in contending his clients were entitled to information concerning the board's intentions and policy.

The appeal is continuing.

Red Cross Collectors To Show Credentials

Door to door collection for articles to be sold in the Red Cross Superfund Store, will present identification cards signed either by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pease or Miss D. W. Ashburnham, officials said at the store today.

Complaints have been received of a man calling at houses in the Gorge district asking for money donations for the Red Cross Superfund Store. The store does not collect money or clothing.

Former Local Boy Promoted in Navy

Following in the footsteps of his late father, George P. Clarke, 21-year-old son of Mrs. G. P. Clarke Jr., formerly of Victoria and now residing at Southampton, England, has been named engineer sub-lieutenant in the Royal Naval Reserve, according to word received here.

His father was Engineer-Commander G. P. Clarke, R.C.N., who died in London some years ago when in England in connection with construction of H.M.C.S. Skeena for the Canadian Navy.

Young Clarke left here two and a half years ago and served his apprenticeship at the great Thorneycroft works on the south coast of England. He is now third engineer on one of Great Britain's coastal patrol boats.

Clarke received his first sea training with the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps of Victoria, where he distinguished himself in many lines. He is a grandson of the late G. P. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke of Victoria, the latter now living with her daughter in Cornwall, England.

ROTARIANS HEAR CLUB OFFICIAL

Dr. Cline Fixott, District Governor of Rotary International of Portland, told Rotarians at their luncheon at the Empress Hotel today of the highlights of the history of the movement since it was first inaugurated by a young Chicago lawyer, Paul Harrison, in 1905.

Harrison, with the help of friends who followed various professions, inaugurated a movement that was to spread all over the world.

Many famous men are members of Rotary International, he said, and the membership has climbed to 210,000 since it was first organized. Clubs were formed in Tacoma, Portland, St. Louis, New Orleans and many other cities during the latter half of 1910, and more were added as the club developed.

Winnipeg was the first city outside of the United States to form a Rotary club. The first Rotary convention outside of the United States was held in Edinburgh, Sidney Pascall of London was the first European to be elected president of Rotary International.

The slogan of the club, "He Profits Most Who Serves Best," was first suggested in a speech by Alfred F. Shelton of Chicago, a pioneer member of the club.

In 1937 the Rotary clubs in Germany and Italy, and other states under the influence of these countries, were disbanded, because the ideals of Rotary International did not correspond with those of the totalitarian states," Dr. Fixott said.

Rotary International aimed at club service, community service, vocational service and international service, and its ideals tended to break the barriers of profession, race, creed or language between men and their fellow men.

Rotarians should not be hasty in their decisions, but should live as intelligent and patriotic citizens. They should not be forced into any international quarrel, but should decide their own course, with the world in the background it was today.

The necessity for determination to succeed should be in the youth of today and should be taught in the younger generation. Youth movements in the Rotary were helping the younger people to "find themselves."

"This is the age for those who have youth, not so much in age as in spirit," said Dr. Fixott.

Walter Luney, president, thanked the speaker on behalf of the members.

Several visitors and new members were introduced and reports of the various committees given.

Music was enjoyed during the luncheon by an orchestra under the direction of Alfred Prescott.

Canada Cements Ties With India

Dr. D. P. Pandia, member of the Indian National Congress, who has been interviewing the government at Ottawa in a successful effort to secure the suspension of the deportation order affecting 60 Hindus who entered Canada illegally, is at the Empress Hotel today.

"I am extremely pleased with the outcome of my mission," said Dr. Pandia who succeeded in getting the deportation order canceled.

"This action on the part of the Canadian government is bound to cement the friendship that exists between India and Canada."

Dr. Pandia, five years ago, was secretary to Mahatma Gandhi. "He is the most dominant figure in Indian history," he said of the famous head of the Congress party in India. "He is not an enemy of England any more, he is Britain's friend."

"We have almost reached the Dominion status in India," said Dr. Pandia of the drive toward Indian self-government.

"There are difficulties that will have to be smoothed out, but we look for India to have similar government status within five years."

Capt. C. F. Macaulay Of Cadboro Bay Dies

Capt. Charles Frederick Macaulay of Cadboro Bay, a veteran of the Great War, and a former master mariner, died yesterday in the Shaughnessy Military Hospital, Vancouver, in his 71st year.

He was born in Ottawa on December 18, 1868, went to England as an infant and was educated there. He went to sea as an apprentice in the barque Ruthwell at the age of 14 and was one of the few master mariners in both sail and steam. Retiring from the sea, he came to British Columbia 30 years ago and lived in New Westminster until three years ago, when he made his home with his daughter, at Cadboro Bay.

Capt. Macaulay served overseas with the 47th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force. He was a member of the Saanich branch of the Canadian Legion.

Surviving are his widow and one daughter, Mrs. S. G. Rife, both at Cadboro Bay Road, Cadboro Bay, and two grandchildren. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2.30, from the S. J. Curry and Son Funeral Home. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

MACKERETH—Funeral services for David Mackereth will be held at Sands' Mortuary tomorrow afternoon at 2. Rev. E. M. Cook and Rev. G. A. Reynolds will officiate, and interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

EDMOND—Mrs. Rebecca Edmond, wife of John T. Edmond of 1073 Newport Avenue, died yesterday in the Royal Jubilee Hospital. She was born in South Shields, England, and came to Canada 25 years ago. She leaves her husband and one daughter, Mrs. D. J. MacDonald, both of this city; also four sisters and three brothers in England. Strictly private funeral services will be held on Saturday, followed by cremation. Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co. have charge of the arrangements.

Chandler, at home, two daughters and two sons in England. He was a member of the Metropolitan United Church. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 from the S. J. Curry and Son Funeral Home. Rev. A. E. Whitehouse will officiate and interment will take place in Royal Oak Burial Park.

THOMSON—Mrs. Maria Miranda Thomson of 526 Toronto Street died in St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday in her 79th year. She was born in Carlton Colville, Sussex, England, and came to Victoria in 1889. Mrs. Thomson is survived by her husband, James Thomson, at home, and four sons, H. G. Lincoln, Robert H. Pinkerton and Eldon H. Pinkerton, all of Vancouver, and H. J. Ulyote of Hayward, Cal., six grandchildren and one great-grandchild. The remains will be forwarded by Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co. to night to Vancouver for services by Rev. E. F. Church, followed by interment in the Masonic Cemetery at Burnaby.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for James Young Griffin, 82, retired western Canada meat packer, who died at home here Tuesday. Born in Hailton County, Ont., Mr. Griffin moved to Winnipeg and established a pork packing business, which was incorporated as J. Y. Griffin and Company in 1892. He moved to Vancouver in 1900 and five years later sold his interest in the business, which established branches throughout western Canada, to Swift and Company. Mr. Griffin was president of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association in 1898.

MAIL CONTRACTS IMPORTANT

Briefly he referred to the inauguration of Trans-Canada Airways service, and emphasized the importance of mail contracts in extending the service to new routes.

Later in the meeting the council endorsed a motion submitted by Alderman Archie Willis, Victoria, congratulating the Postmaster General on the success of the airmail service and asking him to extend it when finances and conditions permitted.

With minor amendments, including deletion of a clause which would have permitted the council to undertake borrowings, the new by-laws of the body were approved.

Debate opened on the move to bring Empire pilots here for training. Alderman Wilson noted British Columbia provided the most ideal conditions for such training for war service.

R. W. Mayhew, M.P., informed the meeting the government was establishing aviators' recruiting stations throughout Canada. One would be opened in Victoria shortly, he said. He favored extension of aviation training in technical schools and advised the council not to let the numerical strength of any one area outweigh the advantages of others when training centres were being selected.

SHOULD BUILD PLANTS

He believed British Columbia should waste no time in establishing a plane factory.

Mr. Rowbottom outlined efforts

B.C. to Seek Plane Orders, Training School

In an effort to bring to British Columbia its fair share of training schools for Empire airmen, the British Columbia Aviation Council, meeting in the City Hall today, instructed its executive to dispatch immediately a memorial to federal authorities asking them to take full advantage of existing facilities in this province.

To provide further data on potential training centres member municipalities were requested to list information on possible sites in their districts, covering climatic and geographical conditions and to file them with this union by November 26 for forwarding to Ottawa.

The council also favored a suggestion advanced by E. G. Rowbottom, Deputy Minister of Trades and Industries, calling on Ottawa to place orders for airplanes in British Columbia. If such orders were forthcoming, he said, capital would be raised without trouble in the province for the erection of three or four airplane factories. His department, he said, had a representative in Ottawa at present seeking such orders. He urged the council to consider the delegate as their own in any representations on the matter.

WELCOMED TO CITY

The council was welcomed to Victoria by Mayor Andrew McGavin, who expressed his pleasure at seeing municipalities so widely represented at the meeting. It was, he said, gratifying to see the interest taken by them in air activities. The mayor spoke of the support given to Victoria by R. W. Mayhew, M.P., in airport efforts, and stated the field at Sidney would be one of the biggest in Canada.

Alderman H. Wilson, president of the council, thanked the mayor for his welcome, introduced Edwin Orr, secretary-treasurer of the council, and called upon Alderman H. J. Sullivan, K.C., New Westminster, for an explanation of expropriation moves by municipalities to secure land for airports beyond their boundaries. Such moves, Alderman Sullivan stated, would require individual applications for permissive legislation. No blanket policy could be secured.

In a brief outline of activities of the council during the year, Alderman Wilson noted certain municipalities had successfully followed recommendations of the body to seek federal aid for airports. War conditions, he continued, were causing some civilian aviation schemes to be shelved.

He won support for a motion to request the Dominion Government to resume its former $1,000,000 a year grants throughout Canada to assist technical education. Ground work courses and other preliminary aeronautical teaching in Vancouver's technical schools had been of considerable value. With further financial assistance it could be extended beneficially, he said.

Union Defends All British Africa

LONDON (CP)—The Union of South Africa is determined to defend all British territory in Africa, says Hon. Denys Reitz, Minister of Native Affairs.

In an address broadcast to the Empire, Col. Reitz declared the Union would be held "against all comers," adding that South Africa would assist other African countries under the British flag.

Canadians would be better able to understand South Africa's internal problems than other parts of the Empire, he said, "for in your country, too, you are solving your racial and language questions on a basis of equality and justice to both sections."

Col. Reitz arrived in England last week to participate in talks with other Dominion ministers, including Hon. T. A. Crerar, Canadian Minister of Resources, and the British government on matters of common interest arising out of the war.

"In the first place, I can give you the assurance that we in South Africa are fully aware that should the Germans succeed we would be the first to go under," he declared.

"We hold an enormously strategic position as halfway house between two warring and we produce more than three-quarters of the world's gold supply, so we are under no illusion as to what would have happened to us had we been without the mutual friendship and protection of the nations of the British Commonwealth."

Col. Reitz said he himself had served for three years against the British Empire and other steel beds, dressers and chests of drawers, 20 very good leather-upholstered chairs, odd chests, mahogany settees, drop-head Singer Sewing Machine, very fine Walnut China Cabinet, Carpets, Lino and Congo-leum, Mahogany and Oak Centre Tables, Couches, large and small circulating heaters, enamel-front and other Ranges, Heaters and Parlor Stoves, Bicycles, Kitchenware, Dishes, Garden Tools, etc.

Around the Docks

Beulah Shortly to Be Recommissioned

After being out of commission for nearly two years, Panamanian registered motorship Beulah, which was in distress, brought to Victoria, sunk and finally salvaged following three months of salvage effort, will be ready for recommissioning about November 15 and is shortly afterwards expected to sail on an ocean voyage.

It is proposed to reclassify the vessel with the American Bureau of Shipping to comply with regulations for cargo insurance.

Although still flying the Panamanian flag, the Beulah formerly held classification with the Norge Veritas and later Lloyds Register of Shipping. The unlucky motorship is now completing repairs at the North Vancouver plant of the Pacific Salvage Company Ltd.

A considerable amount of frame strengthening and deckwork has been carried out aboard the ship and in the engine room the bearings have been rebored and the crankshaft overhauled. It is understood that the Pacific Salvage Company Ltd., owners of the Beulah, are considering offers for the purchase of the vessel. Need of deepsea tonnage owing to the submarine campaign may result in the Beulah finding a buyer in the immediate future.

She is a former sailing vessel with a cargo capacity of about 2,000 tons and is equipped with twin auxiliary Diesel engines. The Beulah, after surviving a heavy winter gale, limped into this port December 27, 1937, with a tremendous list and sank overnight alongside the Ogden Point docks. She was salvaged in March last year and was laid up in the Inner Harbor for many months.

Holiday Rates

Over the Remembrance Day holiday, Canadian Pacific Railway is offering special bargain fares to and from all points on Vancouver Island as well as special week-end rates by steamer to Vancouver and Seattle, according to James Macfarlane, C.P.R. general agent.

By the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, the going dates are November 10 and 11, requiring travelers to leave destination not later than November 14.

The E. and N. rail rates will be in effect between Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo, Port Alberni and Courtenay and all intermediate points.

Reduced rates on steamer lines will be effective on the afternoon of November 10, with return limit set for midnight, November 13.

Skipper Recovers

Capt. James Hardy, master of Ss. Hopepeak, who was brought ashore here suffering from acute appendicitis, has been released from St. Joseph's Hospital and left early in the week for Vancouver to recuperate before going home overseas.

Capt. Hardy's home is at South Shields, England.

Nootka Is Repaired

Repairs have been completed to the Canadian Pacific steamer Nootka by the Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. at the Bay Street plant and the coast freighter will shortly be turned back to her owners.

The vessel has been lying alongside the Upper Harbor plant for several weeks getting repairs to damage caused by the coal-damp explosion which occurred off Ketchikan, resulting in the death of one of her crew and injury to two others.

The work carried out by the V.M.D. included removal and repairing of damaged pilehead oil storage tanks, straightening and replacement of bent steel cargo booms, and various interior and deck repairs.

Held at Madeira

Rev. Capt. John Antle, who is navigating a small sailing craft from England to Victoria for the Columbia Coast Mission, and who put into Funchal, Madeira, from Lisbon, has advised Harry Barnes of Rithet Consolidated Limited that his departure from Funchal on the next leg of the trans-Atlantic crossing is indefinite owing to the war.

Capt. Antle first learned of the outbreak of war when he reached Madeira, and he was advised by the British naval authorities there to remain in port until such time as the submarine situation had been cleared.

Crew Rescued

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The governor's office reported today it had received a radiogram that five crew members of the wrecked motorship Martha, and two men of a missing lighter from Naknek, had been rescued. The message said the survivors had been taken to Port Moller.

JUDGE CRITICAL OF TRAP INFORMATION

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Inaccurate information, permitted during the Washington state anti-fish trap campaign, on the operation of traps at Sooke, B.C., was criticized by Mr. Justice Gordon Sloan yesterday when he resumed hearings of the British Columbia fish probe.

Mr. Justice Sloan made his criticism after one of two Seattle witnesses had testified the Sooke traps played a part in the 1934 campaign which resulted in the removal of all fish traps in Washington waters the next year.

"From what you tell me," the justice said after listening to John F. Evich and Kenneth McLeod, "I take it the only reason the Sooke traps are a factor in Washington is because the public is not enlightened as to the true facts. Do you think it would be better to abolish the Sooke traps because the public know only the wrong facts, or to give them the true facts?"

Evich is secretary of the Puget Sound Fish Owners' Association and McLeod secretary of the Salmon Conservation League of Washington.

"Evich said proponents of the fish traps had tried to spread the impression 'traps were all over Canada. To refute this argument we explained that the traps were a down grant, and that parliament had no control over them. We understood that was the situation."

(The traps are licensed by the Dominion Government).

The commissioner brought out that although the Sooke traps catch on the average only about 2 per cent of the Puget Sound run of salmon, no effort had been made by the organizations of which Evich and McLeod are officials, to correct statements the catch was much higher.

ISSUES DENIAL

VANCOUVER (CP) — A. Shields, president of the Pacific American Fisheries of Bellingham, Wash., denied before the Royal Commission investigating British Columbia fisheries here today that existence of fish traps in British Columbia water was ever advanced as a reason for restoring traps in Washington State.

Fish trap owners of Washington fought abolition of traps, he said, but the British Columbia traps at Sooke, B.C., did not enter into the picture.

He said there was little hope on the part of these trap owners for early restoration of traps in Washington State waters.

Boeing to Speed Plane Production

SEATTLE (AP) — Boeing Aircraft Company announced today it was arranging for a five-year loan up to $5,500,000 for working capital in production on a backlog of unfilled orders which have more than doubled since September 1.

The loan through a group of banks, mostly of Seattle, will have R.F.C. participation.

The company said its backlog of unfilled orders increased from approximately $12,000,000 to $26,000,000, and that 5,000 employees were now working on a three-shift basis.

B.C. Salmon Pack

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's canned salmon pack to date this season totals 1,420,515 cases, the weekly report released by the chief supervisor of fisheries said today.

The total last year was 1,589,308 cases and 1,443,820 cases in 1937.

Totals for the various species with 1938 figures in brackets are: Sockeye 263,638 (438,917); spring 15,641 (14,969); steelheads 683, (879); bluebacks 48,257 (27,348); cohoes 189,394 (270,412); pinks 618,276 (398,847); chums 284,566 (437,936).

Canadian Reporter Will Cover War

OTTAWA (CP) — Action of the Canadian Active Service Force in France will be reported by a Canadian Press staff war correspondent. This was learned at the semiannual meeting of the board of directors of the Canadian Press.

W. Rupert Davies, president of the Canadian Press, who made a three-week tour of central European capitals immediately before the outbreak of war, told the directors Canadian newspapers were being provided with the most complete news coverage on the war available to any group of newspapers in the world. In addition to the output of the Canadian Press London bureau, there were available for use the reports of the Associated Press, Reuters, the Havas News Agency and the Press Association.

German Ship Trained By U.S. Gunboat

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States gunboat Erie of the neutrality patrol stood guard today over the German freighter Havelland in the harbor of Manzanillo on the Mexican Pacific coast to insure that she does not violate regulations of the American neutrality zone.

The Erie and United States planes from Panama were ordered to search for the Havelland last week when the freighter failed to appear at Panama for transit through the canal. The cargo vessel left Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, October 8.

The planes located the Havelland at sea and radioed the Erie. United States officials here said the Erie communicated with the Havelland by radio, established her identity and asked her destination.

When informed the Havelland was heading for Manzanillo, the Erie trailed her, but did not halt or search her, officials said.

It was reported the Havelland was having engine trouble, and is seeking to tranship her cargo of cocoa, oil, sugar and copra, originally destined to American ports, to American ships.

Bonds

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate bonds today were uneven toward noon, while U.S. governments inched to slightly lower levels. Canadian and Latin American bonds were virtually the sole advances in the foreign list.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lack of buying power and reports of moisture in some sections of the United States winter wheat belt gave wheat futures prices a slightly easier tone on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Quotations weakened gradually in the slow trade and at close were 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower, October at 69 1/2, November 69 1/4, December 70 1/4 to 70 1/2 and May 75 1/4.

Exporters offered only minor support in the pit and the day's overseas business was not expected to exceed 300,000 bushels. Chicago wheat prices lost about a cent, while at noon Buenos Aires quotations were 1/4 cent lower to 1/2 cent higher.

Mills and exporters continued their moderate demand for lower grades of cash wheat. In the coarse grain pit export interests took substantial quantities of oats and barley as most prices declined under hedging pressure.

Estimated Argentine wheat shipments this week totaled 3,674,000 bushels, against 2,689,000 last week and 1,484,000 bushels shipped during the corresponding seven days last year.

Belgian Congo 79 Times Size of Belgium

Only once in my travels have I visited Belgium, but the days I spent there were pleasant and interesting. Most of the time I stayed in Brussels, but I visited one village and also went to Antwerp, the second largest city.

Street scene in Antwerp, Belgium.

Counting its suburbs, Brussels has a population of more than 800,000. People often call it "the Little Paris." It is not so old as Paris, but has a history going back 1,400 years. For a long period it was owned by Austria. At a later time, Napoleon took it into his empire. It has been the capital of the kingdom of Belgium since 1830.

Belgium's king, Leopold III, will be 38 years old on November 3. His beautiful wife, Queen Astrid, died four years ago in an automobile accident in Switzerland.

The law-making power of Belgium is in the hands of the parliament, not the king. Members of parliament are chosen by popular vote and are known as senators and deputies.

While I was in Brussels, I stayed at the home of one of the deputies. He followed an old Belgian custom of shaking hands with me several times each day. In the morning, at noon, in the evening, and sometimes just before I went to bed.

The chief thing I did during my visit to Antwerp was to visit the great zoo there. It is one of the best I have seen anywhere. One reason for its fine collection of animals is the fact the Belgium owns a large colony in Africa—the Belgian Congo. Strange animals of many kinds have been brought to Belgium from this colony.

The Belgian Congo is a huge stretch of land in the heart of Africa. It covers 902,000 square miles, which means it is 79 times as large as Belgium.

The Belgian Congo is rich in plant life, and many of the plants yield products of great value on the world's markets. These products include palm oil, palm nuts, cotton, coffee, cocoa, rubber, sugar and ivory.

In 1914, the outside world heard a great deal about Belgium. Germany's army leaders ordered hundreds of thousands of soldiers to invade it, on the way to France. The little country fought off the soldiers as well as possible, but they were too strong.

If Germany had been the victor in that war, Belgium very likely would have become part of the German empire. As it was, the nation's freedom was saved.

HOROSCOPE

Friday, October 27

This is not an important planetary government, but adverse aspects may cause delays and obstacles where swift progress is recognized as important. While the mind may be clear and the judgment keen, unexpected difficulties may block deals or manufacturing contracts. In the evening there is a beneficent aspect for conference among employers or business leaders.

Exotic fashions accepted by the younger generation may offend parents, but fathers and mothers should be patient since boys and girls merely reflect subtle tendencies due to the stars. The wearing of the colors astrologically beneficial is a vagary that should be tried. Subjects of Scorpio have dark red as their lucky color and their fortunate gem is the opal.

This is a fairly favorable way for retail business. Elaborate attire is to bring money to importers of jewels and furs.

Assistants to cabinet officers are to gain special recognition before the new year. Promotions are forecast as long established careers come to a close through sudden death. Conservative ideas are to be conspicuous as policies, economic and financial, are discussed by high officials. Plans for the utilization of men and women on relief as employees in novel departments of activity will cause opposition, but there will be a growing demand that the able-bodied who receive financial aid give adequate returns and not a travesty on honest labor.

BUTTERFLIES, AMONG THE MOST FAR-SIGHTED OF ALL INSECTS, CAN SEE MOVEMENTS ONLY FIVE OR SIX FEET AWAY.

RIGHTERONG? IMITATIONS ARE SOMETIMES BETTER THAN THE GENUINE ARTICLE.

ANSWER: Right. In the scientific world, many products made in laboratories are far superior to the genuine article produced by nature.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—A young man who is a fine character, well educated, has good manners, is popular with every one who knows him and has a fine position with a wonderful future has fallen in love with me and wants to marry me. But here is my problem: While I enjoy his company better than that of any other boy I ever met and would rather be with him than anyone else, I don't experience the romantic thrills I read about in the love magazines. Can one be in love without almost losing consciousness over a kiss? PUZZLED.

Answer: It is only in goofy romances that girls palpitate at the sound of a footstep and swoon with ecstasy over a kiss. In real life they take love in their stride without letting it upset their mental and physical equilibrium.

It is a pity that daffy poets and novelists have set up the standards for testing love, for it keeps so many nonthrillers from knowing that they are in love when they are in love.

DOROTHY DIX.

Newsmen Find Boys At Front 'Never So Fit'

ANOTHER EXPEDITIONARY FORCE OFF TO FRONT—They look as if they might be the General Staff—but they're actually the war correspondents boarding a France-bound plane in England to report on how the troops are faring. They wear the new official uniform for correspondents, which is similar to a British officer's, except for special badges marked "C."

Pink Rose Wallpaper
Amid Rain And Mud;
Hot Rum At Day's End

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE (CP-Reuters)—A small sitting room, the wallpaper a profusion of British pink roses and the ceiling covered with a greyish white wash, with the entire floor space deep in straw—this is the typical home of members of the infantry platoon section immediately behind the front line held by Great Britain's expeditionary force.

There are neat individual piles of blankets, surmounted by khaki greatcoats and steel helmets. Each pile is flanked by a rifle. In such surroundings live the men who are still the basic unit on which the strength of the British army rests.

Correspondents visited such a room today. It was part of a cottage adjoining what used to be a bakery and is now the headquarters of B company of the "NTH" battalion of the "Homes" regiment. In that little room tonight will be sleeping young men who are holding part of the British front.

They will have lights out at 9:45 p.m. At 6 a.m. tomorrow the room will be filled with voices and the nobby will be getting his laugh even at that hour, as the section begins the business of washing and shaving and dressing. The blankets are again folded into those irreproachable neat piles.

RAIN AND MUD

The rain was streaming down as we toured this sector of the front. We drove up in a camouflaged car and as long as we ran along the main road the going was good. But in order to see the effect of recent bad weather we directed the drive to turn off along some side roads. Along these we had plentiful evidence of the presence of an old enemy of the British soldier in France—mud. Traveling along the crown of the side road was simple enough, but on each side the mud was thick and soft, and when we had to pass or overtake another vehicle there seemed every chance of our being bogged. In some places we passed groups of soldiers working with spades and shovels.

We saw one man trying the effect of a hard broom in an effort to dissipate the mud, but the impression we had was that as far as these auxiliary roads are concerned the coming winter will make the passage of heavy traffic a nice problem for our engineers.

WATER AND TRENCHES

Along the front line we visited men of B company who are working hard all day long adding to the strength of their positions. The country in this part of the line is generally flat, but whenever a slope allows it long trenches have been dug to drain away the water that lies so persistently in the clay soil. These drainage trenches could doubtless serve as communication trenches in the event this front comes under enemy fire. Their sides are being kept from falling by sections of tightly bound twigs fixed flat against the trench walls.

Certainly there is plenty of water there now. The men are digging them quickly and deeply but the water streams in with the rain and douses them from the sides as they dig. For this reason earthworks are being made the firing-points for infantrymen's rifles and machine guns. They consist for the most part of the breastworks, that is of five steps cut into the face of the soil and banked up above the level of the ground.

STRATEGIC DEFENCES

These breastworks are being constructed at various strategic points to strengthen the fire available from solid concrete pill boxes and blockhouses which constitute the main line of defence along this sector of the front.

The front line troops in France have got their work cut out. Day after day these men are struggling in the sticky mud while a cold rain lashes them as they work. But they seem to thrive on it. They have not felt so fit for a long time, one man asserted cheerfully when we asked how things were with him. Theirs is a simple, open-air life of hard work and first-class physical condition. And over their men the company officers watch like conscientious foster-mothers. At the end of the soaking day all those who wish it get hot rum.

Doctor Finds
Cause of Piles

After years of study, Dr. J. S. Leonard, in the great majority of cases, it is an internal congestion, holding back blood flow from the lower bowel with increasing pain and misery. Dr. Leonard also found that external applications like salves, ointments and suppositories did not usually give more than slight relief, as they did not treat this cause of piles.

Piles being generally due to an internal congestion should have internal medication, so Dr. Leonard worked out a prescription to be used internally. He named it Hem-Roid.

Hem-Roid has been successful in hundreds of cases, many of long standing, and is so successful generally, any pile sufferer may give Hem-Roid a trial with the understanding you may have your money back, if the first package is not satisfactory.

MacFarlane and Cunningham Drug Stores, or any other druggist can supply you and we feel sure you will find Hem-Roid is a very effective, easy and pleasant way to relieve your piles. You can generally see definite results the first day. Adv.

NANAIMO JURY TOLD
CHILD ASSAULTED

NANAIMO (CP)—Five-year-old Isabella Rice was criminally assaulted before she was strangled, a Victoria pathologist testified yesterday at the trial of Simon McLean, charged with murdering the child last May 7.

Dr. J. H. Moore was called to the stand to report on his examination of clothing Simon wore the day the girl was slain. He also examined the girl's body which was found stuffed into a sack in a clump of bushes on the Indian reservation near McLean's house. Yesterday's evidence largely was a repetition of that given previously concerning McLean's movement on the day before the child disappeared and the day her body was found.

The case is expected to continue.
